Time For Migrants To Go Home

Helen McEntee's Hate Crimes Against The Irish People p5

No Climate Crisis

THE Irish people are being duped into giving up their entire way of life for the fraudulent claim that they are changing the weather. This is a blatant lie.

Even if you believe that manmade carbon emissions are warming the planet - when all the unbiased science says otherwise - Ireland's carbon footprint compared to the rest of the world is .000001%. In other words, ZERO. That means the Irish people are not impacting in ANY way, shape or form on 'climate change' yet are being blackmailed to forgo their First World way of life, comforts and essentials like gas/oil heating and cars.

It may appear that storms are more violent, floods more frequent and seasons more changeable but the facts and long data show otherwise. We're not saying that terrible weather events do not occur - even in Ireland - but often these can be manufactured and exploited by State actors and media to bring about a mindset in Irish people whereby they are willing to give up their turf fires, diesel cars and frequent flights and become a Third World nation. None of this is necessary. Drains can easily be blocked by corrupt agents in the middle of the night to cause a local flood in a specific area to create fear headlines. Just look at the number of fires that took place in Europe during the summer that were lit by arsonists to terrify the masses (See p6). All fake but you won't read about that on the media. The Directed Energy Weapon event that took place in Maui, Hawaii in August is another case in point: houses burnt but trees still standing? It was obviously a staged event. The crazed reaction of government in seizing homes and restricting filming and movement of people afterwards suggests it was a UN-style land grab.

Fraudulent Colour Coding: Weather maps on media are turned red during normal summer days to manipulate Irish people into thinking Ireland is warming up

They are using climate fraud to take away your freedom

If you haven't learned about UN Agenda 2030, The Great Reset or 15-Minute Cities yet, you need to. They are part of a broader plan to bring in a totalitarian World Government that has been in the making for decades. Go to Bitchute and learn more about it. Wherever you see 'Stay Local' or anyone preaching that you should reduce your carbon footprint, there is another agenda at play designed to restrict your God-given freedom to wake up in the morning and go where you like.

It's dressed up in idyllic images of cycle lanes, home offices and 'eco-friendly communities' but it is nothing more than a master plan to enslave you. The diesel/petrol car is our most essential mode of transport and we must never be lured into thinking we should give them up. If you have been foolish enough to buy an electric vehicle, you'll have discovered they're another big scam with huge maintenance costs and the headache of frequent charging. Their only purpose is control. You might have asked yourself by now, where does the electricity that runs them come from: yes, coal, oil and gas - all of which are natural, renewable and replenish themselves over time. Many of the hypocrites lecturing us about our lifestyles live in big detached piles with several cars. The blackmailed puppets in Leinster House are given a script to read and ordered what to say. They have absolutely no control over what happens. Ireland is once again a land run by outsiders.

So don't fall for the virtue-signallers and hype of the climate fanatics. They are Watermelons: green on the outside, red (Communist) on the inside. If they cared about the planet they would ban plastic bottles and wrapping, glyphosate, junk food, polluting corporations and mass immigration. But they don't. It's about tyranny. Hold onto your hard-earned comforts because they are determined to take them from you but only if you let them.

Stop Swallowing Lies

MANY Irish people are sleepwalking into their own destruction by believing the government and media have their best interests at heart. They are in denial about their own actions over the last few years and how they lost all reason during 'Covid' putting dangerous plastic masks over their face and nose, socially distancing and abandoning vulnerable relations in nursing homes and hospitals, which are nothing more than modern-day Pharma-run death camps.

They justify their behaviour because they 'had to pay the mortgage', were afraid of a common cold or had pressure put on them from some bully in their life. And they have paid the price. They gave up their freedom and possibly their health by taking an experimental drug which has brought about the deaths of hundreds of thousands of people around the world, and injured millions.

No sentient being in Ireland could argue that the political parties who have run our country into the ground in the last two decades have ever shown even a pretence that they cared about your health. If they did they would take all sorts of action that would heal modern diseases such as banning the neurotoxin fluoride in tap water (designed to keep people dumb), glyphosate

Round Up and other carcinogens that are sprayed all over our environment, other cancer-causing poisons like 5G, LED lighting, SMART metres, and all of the sugar-laden junk food that takes up the aisles of most supermarkets. Why do they push all of these dangers on us? Because Big Daddy government despises you and all of the institutions of the State are working to wipe you out and steal your freedom, wealth and property.

Some Irish people STILL don't get the fact that they have been duped as they vegetate in the evening in front of Miriam and Clare under some form of hypnosis causing their brains to become even more cut off from reality.

Those of us who have tried to save their lives and our hard-fought freedoms were on the receiving end of constant abuse as we tried to warn the public about the vaccine cocktail of poison and what all of this nonsense over the last few years is really about.

There will always be some people we cannot help and who refuse to see the truth because they live in fear and dependency - the state of comatose RTE needs them to stay in so they can continue to swallow their lies. But be in no doubt that a lot of Irish people are waking up and making the changes they need to lead happy, healthy and fruitful lives unshackled by the State and its insidious control mechanisms.

It takes a lot to admit you were wrong. We applaud those who have done so. We have received many letters from people with crippling vaccine-related conditions and families who have lost someone after the vaccine saying they wished they had listened to the 'conspiracy theorists'.

And who are we? People who do not trust what government tells them because by and large governments throughout history have served themselves and the Jewish financial elite that runs this world. Those leaders who tried to break away from that debt slave financial system have found themselves assassinated very quickly: think Jesus Christ, JFK, Adolf Hitler and Gaddafi.

Everything we have been told about history is a lie. Certainly in the last century of Jewish-run Hollywood and mainstream media. But instead of calling people kindergarten names, open your mind to the possibility that that may be right and do your own research. Get away from You Tube and visit sites like Bitchute where the real story about many things can be found: such as the natural cures for cancer, why Big Pharma is designed to harm and kill, the truth about WWII and why it is the reason we are in this mess today, how the ruling elite are behind climate events to frighten people into adopting Communist green agendas, and the staging of terror events and mass shootings to get the masses to give up their freedom.

We are in the greatest awakening in human history. Don't get left behind. Question everything you are told. When you start to understand how this world works, you'll begin to live life fully and with purpose and will experience true happiness as it will ultimately lead you back to your Catholic faith which our ancestors held onto throughout centuries of persecution. It is the only thing that can save Ireland and the Irish people now and always has been.

God bless you all and keep fighting the good fight.

Who Really Controls You

ANYONE who still believes the clowns in Leinster House have any hand, act or part in the running of this country has been asleep at the wheel for the last few years. It's been a long time since we were governed from within. The criminal misfits who sit in the Dáil and Seanad are mere puppets, bad actors, compromised traitors who are given their scripts every day and told to read them.

We haven't had an election in this country for decades. Just selections, in the same way all referenda have been rigged by CIA/MI5 entities who have been operating in this country for many years and carrying out the colour revolution that has left it unrecognisable: divorce, abortion, LGBT "marriage", children's rights: all designed to destroy the family which is the primary objective of the Communist revolution to take over and ruin a society. So-called 'women's lib' was another step on this disastrous road. Election boxes have already been stuffed with Sinn Fein votes to bring about the final phase in this Marxist takeover. If you think the current lot are nasty, you've seen nothing yet.

Above, you can see the pyramid of power and how the Jewish industrial complex, which controls the Central Banks, media, Big Tech and Pharma, the abortion and sex industries and Hollywood, has its hidden hand in all State bodies, political parties and NGOs to implement their agenda. The goyim (or cattle as they are called in their 'Holy Book' The Satanic Talmud) who now worship money over God comply with their own enslavement and willingly fulfil all of the warped agendas of their Jewish overlords.

Key to understanding our plight is to know we are governed by external forces and that a pantomime is played out daily between politicians and RTE and alternative controlled media like Gript (who pushed the vaccine madness). When you give this circus your attention, you're propping up their narrative and the corruption. So walk away and focus on the real controllers who don't want you to know they're running the show. Only then will you realise how the world works and who's really in charge!

Silence over soaring deaths

Patrick E Walsh on the very real pandemic of excess mortality

Excess death rates in Ireland for 2023 to the end of July are now at 18.4%.

That is 3,400 EXTRA deaths this year so far. This rate is based on current Rip.ie figures, which is an independent record of real time mortality in Ireland, compared to the 5-year average to 2019.

2022 soared to almost 19% with 5,800 extra deaths. 2021 was 14.8% with 4,700 extra deaths. That is 13,900 extra deaths since 2021 in Ireland. This comparison is against pre ‘scamdemic’ figures but most importantly highlights the increase in excess mortality since late 2021 when over 90% of the Irish adult population had received their primary Covid vaccination in Ireland.

Excess deaths across the Western World have been off the scale since 2021. In England and Wales, at the current rate of mortality, there will be 70,000 EXTRA deaths in 2023. That’s an excess death rate of over 10%.

Please consider for a moment the loss of life and the human suffering left behind from this carnage. The figures are so staggering that the scale of what’s happening globally can dwarf the individual heartbreak.

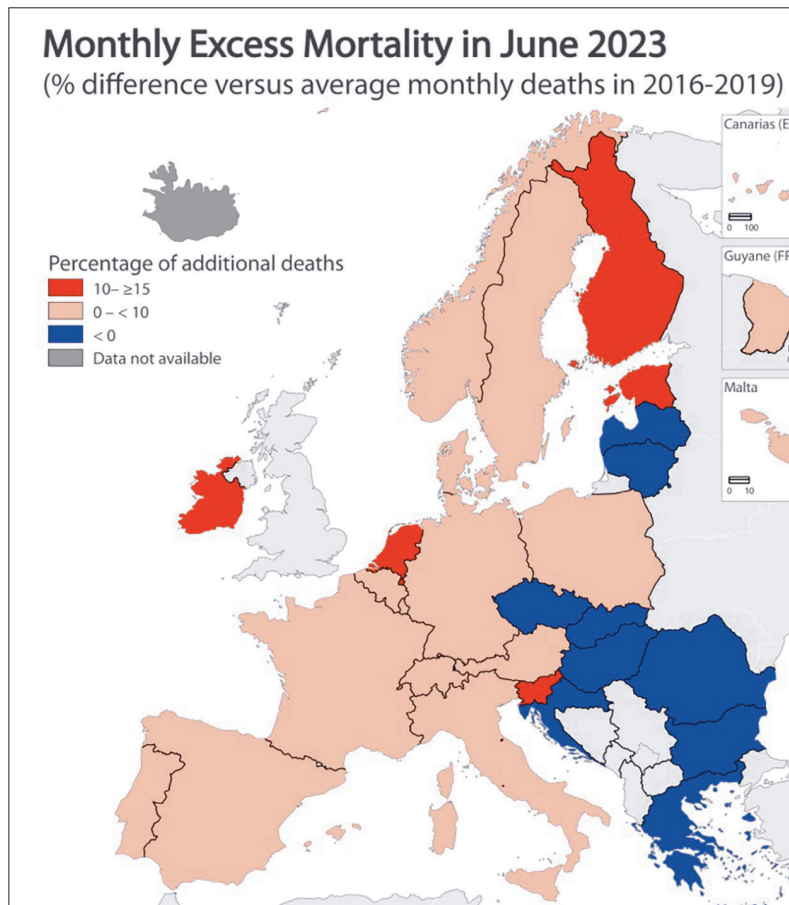

A World War has been raging over the last three years. Ireland is one battlefield in a genocide to destroy European populations.

On July 11th, 2023, Varadkar uttered the following lie in reply to a parliamentary question about excess mortality: “Look at the course of excess deaths over the last couple of years. There isn’t an increase”.

This is from the same man who acknowledged excess deaths in the Dail on 30/1/23 and asked the Chief Medical Officer to conduct an investigation into the same Central Statistic Office figures that show 15% excess deaths for 2022.

Eurostat, based on General Register Office figures taken from rip.ie, show Irish excess deaths in every month since May 2021 to May 2023 (except one) peaking at 25.7% in December 2022 and with 17 out of those 25 months in double figures.

Ireland is tracking the EU average in this period which confirms it’s a Western European problem, although Varadkar in his address to the Dail on 30/1/23 seems to think this makes everything alright.

Cumulative % uptake of an additional vaccine dose among adults (18+) in EU Member States as of Jan 4, 2022

This psychopathic statement does not only display utter contempt for the Irish people but confirms that our government is at war with us. They know about excess mortality and they know that we know, so this amounts to gaslighting and psychological bullying of the ordinary population, who were duped into going along with lockdowns and an experimental vaccination. This statement is part of an orchestrated campaign to demoralise ordinary Irish people along with lies about a need for ‘hate speech’ laws, pornographic school books for children and ‘transgender rights’ garbage. The RTE Tubridy sideshow (see p18) was to take your eye off the real enemy, offer a scapegoat and hope the venting of anger against Marty Morrissey et al will calm down ‘Paddy’ for another while. The reason they cannot acknowledge excess mortality is that they then would have to offer a reason and at the moment the only game in town is Covid 19 vaccine damage. To admit to this would cause the whole rotten edifice of Irish politics and the self-serving civil service to crumble because they ALL backed the vaccination. There are numerous studies showing very strong correlation between the vaccine and excess deaths in the USA, Australia and UK by Edward Dowd, Igor Chudov, Steve Kirsch, Norman Fenton and others.

It’s not just the rate of dying. It’s the relatively young age of death and the massive increase in illness claims in the USA and UK since early 2021, when the vaccine was first rolled out. A recent peer-reviewed Swiss study published in the ‘European Journal of Heart Failure’ showed that 1 in 35 of those receiving the Moderna vaccine suffered myocarditis, which is damage to the heart. There is no such thing as ‘mild’ myocarditis despite what you might hear on mainstream media.

3% of the number of people who received the vaccines is a lot of myocarditis, heart disease and death.

Pfizer, who paid the biggest fine in criminal history for lying about their drugs, have rowed back on their original statements of ‘safe and effective’ to say they only promised the injection would help prevent serious illness and death. The same people who say that ‘correlation doesn’t equal causation’ regarding excess deaths are now offering the unproven negative of preventing serious illness and death as the raison d’etre for the vaccines. The truth is that the evidence of excess deaths and immuno-suppressed illness all over the Western World is strongly correlated to the vaccine. Aging populations, effects of lockdown measures and increased suicides will account for some of the problems but are a smokescreen for the real cause that dare not speak its name. Admit it. Every time you hear of a ‘died suddenly’ or of some healthy young person collapsing, the first thought in your head is ‘were they jabbed?’

And by the way, remember the investigation into excess deaths that Varadkar asked the Chief Medical Officer Breda Smyth to conduct in January 2023? We’re still waiting for her report on this most serious of issues - the same person refused to attend or send a member of her staff to the inquest of Joseph Patrick McGinty who died of cardiac arrest in September 2021, three weeks after receiving the Pfizer injection.

In writing to the Mayo coroner, she said the following: “While I appreciate the particular sensitivities and challenges surrounding the inquest, in particular with regard to establishing whether or not vaccination was a contributory factor in Mr. McGinty’s unfortunate death or was correlative to it, I do not believe attendance of a staff member from my office would either assist you in your enquiries or be appropriate given the sensitivities involved.”

The CMO, whether under her predecessor Tony Holohan or herself, has consistently promoted the vaccine and this is her response.

Like I said, your government hates you and is responsible for most of the sudden deaths of young people we see all around us today.

McEntee's Hate Crimes against the Irish people

THROUGHOUT Irish history, our people have been ethnically cleansed but we have never endured anything like the genocide that is currently happening where illegal immigrants are being dumped into Ireland by the thousands and the Irish are gradually becoming minorities in towns and villages in every single county.

That is the plan and has been for a long time. Look up the Jewish Kalergi plan on Bitchute if you want to learn about this centuries-long scheme to wipe out the native people of Europe. The Jews were kicked out of more than 109 countries throughout history - invariably Catholic ones because they were getting people into debt through illegal money-lending and bringing sexual degeneracy and immorality into the culture in the form of abortion, homosexuality, transgenderism and pornography.

And so their long and cunning plan to bring Third World invaders - let's call them what they are - into all Western countries and Ireland is reaching fruition. In Ireland, Helen McEntee is the vacant stooge being used by the Jews to render the Irish a minority in their only home. In her desperate and failed attempts to bring in phony hate speech laws to try to stop us talking about this genocide, she has shown herself to be the real racist; a sickening purveyor of hate against the Irish people who pay her wages. One day, she will be jailed for what she has done to this country. Because of McEntee, sexual and violent crimes are at unprecedented levels, many carried out by unvetted males from Third World countries who have no business being here. As she tries in vain to gag the Irish people, she galavants around the country with rainbow flags pushing the other genocidal programme of child grooming homosexuality. So what can we do. First of all, it's time to lose the fear of speaking out about immigration and being called playground names like 'racist'. This is a Jewish tactic deployed to silence conversation. We need to start having a vocal public discourse about the fact that we're not willing to endure this ethnic replacement any longer and that these people simply must go home.

No act of violence or aggression is going to bring this about but courageous conversations with neighbours, friends, families and colleagues. These conversations are already happening more frequently than most realise. This verboten topic that the media and government is trying to ban you from speaking about is becoming mainstream in many places as the Irish see the very grave injustice being done to their own people and children who are now second-class citizens in their ancestral home that their parents, grandparents and great-grandparents built for them.

Replacing the Irish in their own country is the definition of racism.

Telling Africans they are Irish is also racist. We need to be kind but firm and remind people that this is our home and it is time they went back to theirs, to their families, to their roots and to build up their own country rather than exploiting the resources of ours and the hospitality of our people.

We all know what an Irish stew tastes like. Once you add spices to it, it's no longer a stew but a curry. Do you want Ireland to become a mini Delhi? It will happen in the blink of an eye if we don't have the courage to speak out and say no more. Have a look at the recent scenes in Clondalkin where a show house viewing revealed the mostly migrant hordes queueing to see it. It's time for everyone to go back home and give us our country back.

Ecomaniacs set Europe on fire

THE New World Order has had a busy summer concocting scams to keep the sheep believing in the climate hoax, as seen by the number of forest fires lit not by mother nature but arsonists. Our Faith tells us all will be revealed in time and this has certainly been the case when it comes to exposing just how desperate the powers-that-shouldn't-be are to keep the zero carbon nonsense going that they have to resort to using pyromaniacs to create climate dramas and frighten the public.

Irish people were told by their lying media all summer long that a terrifying heatwave was frying the Continent with unprecedented temperatures and out of control fires when in fact there was nothing unusual at all about the weather this year. It was just another beautiful summer in the Med.

More embarrassing still for the globalist cabal who are desperate to introduce Communism through their suffocating 'green' agenda - ie we will control every aspect of your life and reduce your First-World lifestyle back to serfdom - is the fact that the lunatics lighting their forest fires keep getting caught.

In July, police in the southern Italian region of Calabria used a drone to monitor and catch an arsonist while he was busy setting a fire to a large stretch of vegetation. Many of the other fires in the Mediterranean including those in Rhodes, Greece, were started by humans although when the truth came out about this, the mainstream media in Ireland failed to report it.

As for the bizarre official response to the disaster in Maui, Hawaii's second-largest island, it's becoming increasingly clear that a massive cover-up was carried out after mysterious fires were spotted near the island's electrical infrastructure. On August 8th, the historic town of Lahaina - a popular tourist spot - was destroyed by a fire that seemingly came out of nowhere and burned over 2200 acres and over 2000 buildings.

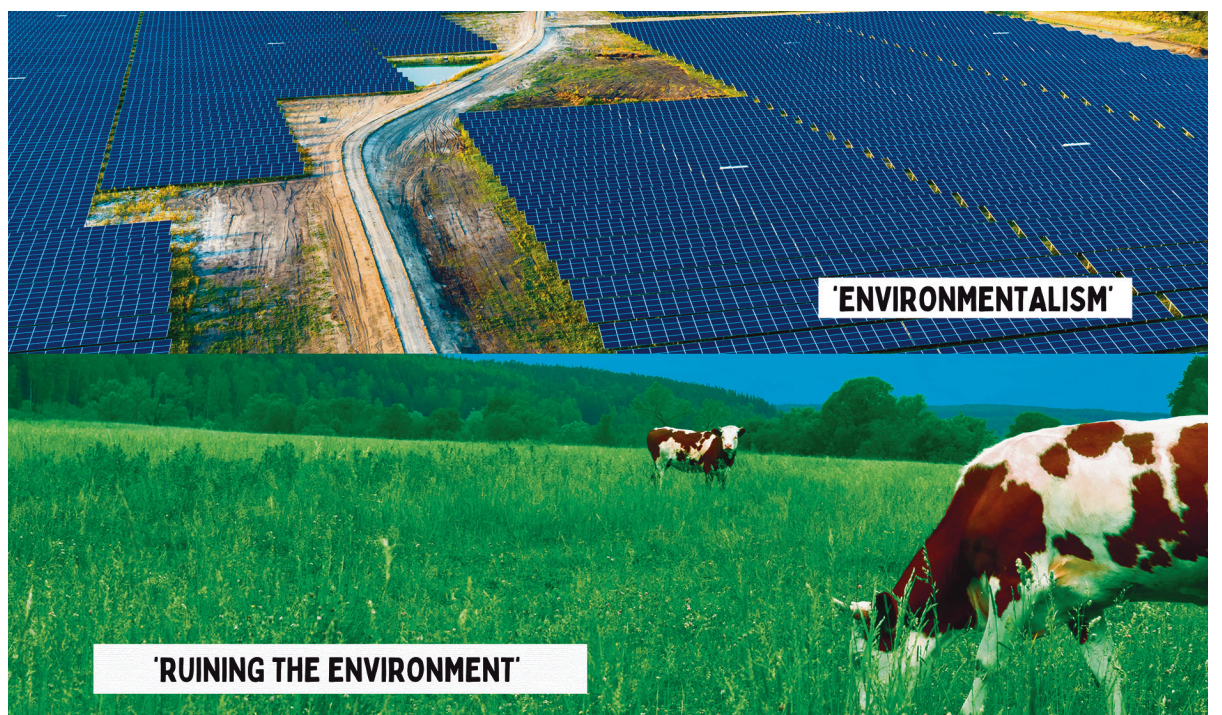

Needless to say climate change was blamed immediately and the government banned all enquiries from non-official state media.

UN Agenda 2030 is all about getting the public off wild spaces and into 15-minute prison cities where they can be more easily monitored and controlled

None of the sirens in place in the area to warn about wild fires were commissioned, police set up roadblocks refusing to let citizens out and anyone filming suspicious aspects of the fire such as the vast number of unburnt trees were threatened with arrest. The consensus now is that a DEW (Direct Energy Weapon) was responsible given the inconsistent nature of the burning. These military operations harness the power of the electromagnetic spectrum to enable pilots to strike critical targets. This is the ideal means to terrify people into submission and carry out government land grabs which is clearly happening now as wealthy private and state interests surround the charred Maui carcass like scavengers.

UN Agenda 2030 is all about getting the public off wild spaces and into 15-minute prison cities where they can be more easily monitored and controlled.

So if you experience a suspicious flood or gale over the coming winter, think before you blame 'climate change'. It's very possible it's been staged by one of the foreign agencies now running Ireland to bring a One World totalitarian government into being.

Media spin climate lies

APPARENTLY, the five hottest days in the last 100,000 years all happened in July of this year, according to the World Meteorological Organization.

The mainstream media regurgitated these spurious claims that The Fourth of July was the hottest day on Earth in as many as 125,000 years - breaking a record set the day before.

Now, first off let's be clear - we did not have the '7 the hottest days' in the last 100,000 years since July 4...or, more accurately, there is absolutely no way for anyone to reliably know if we have or not. Actually think about what they're saying when they make this claim. They are claiming that they know, for a fact, the global average temperature to two decimal points over the last 36 million days.

Some things to bear in mind here before we go any further.

1. Humans have only had the ability to accurately measure the temperature of anything for maybe 400 years.
2. Official 'global temperature' records only began in 1880.
3. Beyond that point we only have partial, local and pretty inaccurate readings back to the mid 17th century.

That's 400 years, give or take.

So, how do climatologists get the data for the other 99,600 years?

Well - they guess.

Sorry, they 'model', using tree ring data and ice core samples.

NASA claims by comparing modern tree rings from known weather systems they can figure out the weather patterns that created tree rings in the past.

This is not scientific, it is interpretive. A tree ring represents a growth cycle, that is all. The factors which affect that growth - specific to the individual tree, the local area or on a global level - are far too complicated for them to have any kind of predictive value.

Disease, volcanic activity, competition from other trees, rainfall, solar activity, parasitic insect or fungal infection...we can't accurately account for any of these factors, and they all impact tree growth. In short, all a tree ring can tell you is the length of a growth cycle. Everything else is extrapolation and modelling based on nothing but an a priori assumption of causation.

But really, that's a secondary issue. There is something more important I want to talk about: The very idea of 'average global temperature'.

'Average global temperature' - is an entirely meaningless statistic. Using numbers and measures to bamboozle the public and control mass opinion is not a new practice.

In fact, a shocking amount of propaganda is entirely predicated upon most people's inability to actually understand statistics. (This inability is actively encouraged by the media and education system, but that's another story).

For those who don't know an "average" or "mean" is calculated by adding all the values within a set of numbers together and then dividing the total by the number of members in the group. This kind of average is excellent at creating deceptive statistics because they can be highly useful or completely misleading totally depending on context, and very few people understand that.

A good example of this problem is 'average life expectancy'. I experienced this first hand when studying history in college.

Some people in my class read that life expectancy was 40 years old for men in Victorian London, and they genuinely thought that meant men were literally aging faster, going grey and getting dementia in their late 30s.

Which is completely wrong by the way.

The truth is most Victorian era males who made it to adulthood generally lived a reasonably normal lifespan, as people have been known to live from time immemorial ('three score years and ten', according to the psalms).

However, Victorian England had a very high infant mortality, and the number of children dying before reaching 1-year old considerably lowers the average age of death.

So, the statistics appear to suggest most people died at 40, but the truth is that very few died at 40, but many died at around the age of 1 and many others died around the age of 70.

An 'average' can be at the same time completely true and yet not at all representative of reality.

'Global average temperature' is the perfect example of this. It produces a number that people can be made to find scary because it lacks all context or any real-world application. It is literally meaningless.

Now, this is not just the rant of a journalist with an A level in statistics. Many scientists and academics over the years have said that the very idea of a 'global temperature' is meaningless.

Such as in the paper, 'Does a Global Temperature Exist?', published in the June 2006 edition of the Journal of Non-Equilibrium Thermodynamics, which argues:

There is no global temperature. The reasons lie in the properties of the equation of state governing local thermodynamic equilibrium, and the implications cannot be avoided by substituting statistics for physics. Since temperature is an intensive variable, the total temperature is meaningless in terms of the system being measured, and hence any one simple average has no necessary meaning.

As an antidote to the academic language, I'll demonstrate with an example:

First of all, the planet is pretty huge, the scale alone can blind people. Let's reduce it down - let's say it's just my kitchen. We'll figure out the 'average temperature' of my kitchen.

Second of all, we should realise that the name itself is misleading. When they talk about 'average global temperature', they obviously don't mean they have measured literally everywhere on Earth. They really mean the 'average surface-level temperature from a series of weather stations on land and weather buoys at sea.'

These temperature readings form the set we use to make our mean average. Over the globe there are thousands and thousands of these, in our kitchen we'll just use four: One in the fridge, one in the stove and one at each end of the kitchen table.

We wake up, and the first thing we do is take the temperature at our "kitchen monitoring stations". They are as follows: 6 degrees C in the fridge, 19 degrees C at both ends of the table and 17 degrees C in the stove. Our average temperature reading: 15.25 degrees.

This data suggests the kitchen is comfortably the coldest room in the house, and is actually much colder even than average room temperature, or the average summer day.

Later, after cooking dinner, we take the temperatures again: 6 degrees C in the fridge, 21degrees C at both ends of the table and 176 degrees C in the stove. Our average temperature is now 56 degrees C.

This is alarming data, don't you think? Firstly, according to this data it is no longer medically safe to even go into my kitchen, and more worryingly if this rate of increase continues my house will burst into flames by midnight tomorrow.

Certainly it's the hottest kitchen since records began (that would be this morning). And judging by old photographs of the people who lived in this house before me, it doesn't look like the kitchen was ever this sweltering hot before.

Hopefully everyone reading this gets the point. Four measuring stations across an entire room is very few, and fully 50% of them experience local extremes of temperature that a) don't apply to the vast majority of the room and b) massively impact the final outcome.

Neither of those "average temperatures" - high or low - is even close to representative of the actual ambient temperature of the kitchen, nor is it likely to have any impact on the real lives of the real people who use that kitchen. They do not reflect reality, and have no application to the real world.

They have no idea if last week was "the hottest week ever", they can't possibly know the "average global temperature" today let alone 125,000 years ago, and even if they could it would be data so vague as to be meaningless.

...of course, all of that is assuming they're not just making them up. Which I supposed they could easily be doing.

Bishop Joseph Strickland Encourages Catholics To Defend The True Faith In This Time Of Crisis

MY Dear Sons and Daughters in Christ, may the love and grace of Our Lord Jesus Christ be upon you always!

In this time of great turmoil in the Church and in the world, I must speak to you from a father's heart in order to warn you of the evils that threaten us, and to assure you of the joy and hope that we have always in our Lord Jesus Christ. The evil and false message that has invaded the Church, Christ's Bride, is that Jesus is only one among many, and that it is not necessary for His message to be shared with all humanity. This idea must be shunned and refuted at every turn. We must share the joyful good news that Jesus is our only Lord and that He desires that all humanity for all time may embrace eternal life in Him.

Once we understand that Jesus Christ, God's Divine Son, is the fullness of revelation and the fulfillment of the Father's plan of salvation for all humanity for all time, and we embrace this with all our hearts, then we can address the other errors that plague our Church and our world which have been brought about by a departure from Truth.

In St Paul's letter to the Galatians, he writes: "I am amazed that you are so quickly forsaking the one who called you by {the} grace {of Christ} for a different gospel {not that there is another}. But there are some who are disturbing you and wish to pervert the gospel of Christ. But even if we or an angel from heaven should preach {to you} a gospel other than the one that we preached to you, let that one be accursed! As we have said before, and now I say again, if anyone preaches to you a gospel other than the one that you received, let that one be accursed!" (Gal 1:6-9)

As your spiritual father, I feel it is important to reiterate the following basic truths that have always been understood by the Church from time immemorial, and to emphasize that the Church exists not to redefine matters of faith, but to safeguard the Deposit of Faith as it has been handed down to us from Our Lord Himself through the apostles and the saints and martyrs. Again, hearkening back to St Paul's warning to the Galatians, any attempts to pervert the true Gospel message must be categorically rejected as injurious to the Bride of Christ and her individual members.

1. Christ established One Church - the Catholic Church - and therefore only the Catholic Church provides the fullness of Christ's truth and the authentic path to His salvation for all of us.
2. The Eucharist and all the sacraments are divinely instituted, not developed by man. The Eucharist is truly Christ's Body and Blood, Soul and Divinity, and to receive Him in Communion unworthily (i.e. in a state of grave, unrepentant sin) is a devastating sacrilege for the individual and for the Church. (1 Cor 11:27-29)
3. The Sacrament of Matrimony is instituted by God. Through Natural Law, God has established marriage as between one man and one woman faithful to each other for life and open to children. Humanity has no right or true ability to redefine marriage.

4. Every human person is created in the image and likeness of God, male or female, and all people should be helped to discover their true identities as children of God, and not supported in a disordered attempt to reject their undeniable biological and God-given identity.
5. Sexual activity outside marriage is always gravely sinful and cannot be condoned, blessed, or deemed permissible by any authority inside the Church.
6. The belief that all men and women will be saved regardless of how they live their lives (a concept commonly referred to as universalism) is false and is dangerous, as it contradicts what Jesus tells us repeatedly in the Gospel. Jesus says we must "deny ourselves, take up our cross and follow Him." (Matt 16:24) He has given us the way, through His grace, to victory over sin and death through repentance and sacramental confession. It is essential that we embrace the joy and hope, as well as the freedom, that come from repentance and humbly confessing our sins.

7. In order to follow Jesus Christ, we must willingly choose to take up our cross instead of attempting to avoid the cross and suffering that Our Lord offers to each of us individually in our daily lives. The mystery of redemptive suffering - suffering that Our Lord allows us to experience and accept in this world and then offer back to Him in union with His suffering - humbles us, purifies us, and draws us deeper into the joy of a life lived in Christ. That is not to say that we must enjoy or seek out suffering, but if we are united to Christ, as we experience our daily sufferings we can find the hope and joy that exist amidst the suffering and persevere to the end in all our suffering. (cf. 2 Tim 4:6-8)

In the weeks and months ahead, many of these truths will be examined as part of the Synod on Synodality. We must hold fast to these truths and be wary of any attempts to present an alternative to the Gospel of Jesus Christ, or to push for a faith that speaks of dialogue and brotherhood, while attempting to remove the fatherhood of God. When we seek to innovate upon what God in His great mercy has given us, we find ourselves upon treacherous ground. The surest footing we can find is to remain firmly upon the perennial teachings of the faith.

Regrettably, it may be that some will label as schismatics those who disagree with the changes being proposed. Be assured, however, that no one who remains firmly upon the plumb line of our Catholic faith is a schismatic. We must remain unabashedly and truly Catholic, regardless of what may be brought forth. We must be aware also that it is not leaving the Church to stand firm against these proposed changes. Standing firm does not mean we are seeking to leave the Church. Instead, those who would propose changes to that which cannot be changed seek to commandeer Christ's Church, and they are indeed the true schismatics. I urge you, my sons and daughters in Christ, that now is the time to make sure you stand firmly upon the Catholic faith of the ages. We were all created to seek the Way, the Truth and the Life, and in this modern age of confusion, the true path is the one that is illuminated by the light of Jesus Christ, for Truth has a face and indeed it is His face. Be assured that He will not abandon His Bride. I remain your humble father and servant, Most Reverend Joseph E. Strickland,

Resist UN Digital ID rollout

UN Plan promotes censorship and social credit system

by KIT KNIGHTLY

IN late May, the office of the United Nations Secretary General published a policy document on aims for the future of the internet.

The title of the follow-up to the 2021 report, Our Common Agenda, says it all really: A Global Digital Compact. That's the goal - international legislation that would seek to control and enforce the use of digital technology.

The proposed clauses promote everything you'd expect them to promote.

Digital identities linked with financial access: 'Digital IDs linked with bank or mobile money accounts can improve the delivery of social protection coverage and serve to better reach eligible beneficiaries. Digital technologies may help to reduce leakage, errors and costs in the design of social protection programmes.'

Environmental or climate change-based social credit systems: 'Sensors and monitors connected to the Internet of things, cloud-based data platforms, blockchain-enabled tracking systems and digital product passports unlock new capabilities for the measurement and tracking of environmental and social impacts across value chains.'

Public-Private Partnership:

The Digital Global Compact is a piece of globalist legislation serving the final aim of globalist policy

'Partnerships between States, private sector and civil society leverage the capacity of digital tools to provide solutions for development across the Sustainable Development Goals. Examples include the Digital Public Infrastructure Alliance, the Coalition for Digital Environmental Sustainability and public-private partnerships for disaster response.'

Countering online 'harm': 'Disinformation, hate speech and malicious and criminal activity in cyberspace raise the risks and costs for everyone online [...] we must strengthen accountability for harmful and malicious acts online.'

Those are the obvious ones; there's also more sneaky, insidious language regarding 'equity' and 'access'. The report is concerned there are many people in the world (mostly the developing world) who don't have regular access to the internet.

This concern would be more honestly expressed in the language of control - people who don't consume digital media can't be hypnotised, people who don't communicate online can't be censored, and people who don't rely on digital banking can't be controlled.

To sum up, the Digital Global Compact is a piece of globalist legislation serving the final aim of globalist policy: control of all aspects of life, achieved by inserting a digital filter between people and reality.

Banking, communication, media consumption, shopping - every interaction you have will be through a digital membrane which can both monitor your exchanges with the world and, if deemed necessary, deny you access to that world.

An interesting final point to note is the words the report doesn't use. 'Globalist' and 'globalism' do not appear once, 'vaccine passports' or 'vaccine certificates' are likewise not mentioned. Neither are 'social credit' or 'central bank digital currency'. They are discussed in a roundabout way, but not mentioned.

They seem to be avoiding buzzwords they know will trigger resistance or set off alarm bells. Would they have done that before the sceptics started winning the covid conversation? I don't think so.

You don't have to take my word for any of this, of course, you can read the whole report yourself.

There's nothing surprising in there at all, obviously. But it's definitely a 'quiet part out loud moment', and a link to send to those people who still dismiss you as a conspiracy theorist.

Time to ditch YouTube's propaganda

YouTube Now Censors All Unauthorised Medical Information

Imagine you've just been given a frightening diagnosis from your doctor. Six months to live. What's the first thing most people do? Straight onto Google and YouTube to find answers.

Do they ever stop and think who funds both of these organs of misinformation? Invariably they will be told to do all the things that will worsen their prognosis: chemo, surgery, radiation and lots of Big Pharma sweeties to expedite their death. How sad that they are missing out on banned information that could actually save their lives, starting first with the rejection of State authority treatments and chemicals that don't work.

In the early days of the scandemic in May 2020, a policy was put in place on YouTube outlawing content in that 'contradicted the WHO or local health authorities.' Since then, it's been regularly updated, banning all 'vaccine misinformation' in late 2021.

The latest revamp is the biggest so far. The new 'medical misinformation policy' - no longer just 'Covid19 misinformation' - now addresses cancer treatments, abortion and non-Covid vaccines.

A YouTube spokesman recently told the media that the new policy will focus on three key areas: 'Prevention, treatment and denial':

- Videos promoting alternative medicine or dietary tips that claim to prevent disease: gone.
- Videos sharing alternative or natural treatments: gone.
- Videos claiming establishment

Wikipedia run by CIA

WIKIPEDIA is the most biased encyclopedia in history, having been hijacked by US intelligence and the political establishment years ago. Its founder Larry Sanger admitted it has been manipulated since at least 2008. Sanger noticed a bias creeping in around 2006, particularly in areas of science and medicine. Around 2010, he noticed that articles about Eastern Medicine were being changed to reflect blatantly biased positions, using "dismissive epithets" to paint this ancient tradition as quackery

Over-the-top kind of establishment bias includes Wikipedia's assertion that the Ukraine-Biden scandal is a conspiracy theory designed to undermine Biden, even though evidence of Biden's corruption has been made public

One explanation for why ideological bias has taken over Wikipedia is that it's intentionally being used as a propaganda tool by intelligence agencies and the globalist establishment that is seeking to establish a One-World Government. To succeed, they can't allow a multitude of dissenting viewpoints to proliferate, and intelligence agencies are working together to disseminate and uphold the Deep State's narratives worldwide treatments (radiation, chemo etc) do more harm than good, even from people who have had those treatments: gone.

- Videos claiming X disease does not exist: gone.

In short, YouTube will no longer allow any medical content at all that isn't simply parroting government policy or promoting Big Pharma products. Tellingly, it's all about approval from authority, not accuracy of the information. In fact, nowhere in the entire document is there any kind of differentiation made between 'accuracy' and 'authority'. In YouTube's world, something is 'information' if it's confirmed by the government, and 'misinformation' if it is not. Reality is subject to the approval of the State, and the State is always right. Which tells you everything you need to know.

Childhood vaccines cause autism

Unvaccinated children don't get autism, which is reaching epidemic levels among those who are

IF you do a Google search on vaccines and their links to autism, you'll be met by a mountain of results claiming no such connection exists. The same thing will happen if you seek a cure for cancer, of which there are plenty, but the world's most powerful search engine will send you down only the dangerous routes of surgery, chemo and radiation. Why? Because Google is funded largely by criminal pharmaceutical companies who make profits by keeping people sick and making them sicker. There's no money in cures.

When it comes to autism, an even more sinister agenda is at play. You would have to be in a comatose state not to realise at this stage we are in the middle of a massive population cull. The 1% who control this planet have decided they want to get rid of about six billion of us and in particular those who are the youngest. Hence we have seen a tsunami of sudden deaths among young people since the Covid injection was rolled out.

Irish governments have known for decades of the link between childhood vaccines and autism but have shielded it from the public because the implications of letting it be known would result in public outcry (hopefully) and would show how they are nothing more than puppets of the criminal pharma corporations. When whistleblowers from Merck started to speak out about its dangerous drugs, one of their executives said that anyone breaching company secrets would be 'hunted down in their homes'. The courageous Merck executive, American Brandy Vaughan, died in suspicious circumstances just before the Covid vaccine launch. Her incredible work in speaking the truth about vaccination through her groundbreaking organisation LearnTheRisk.org cost her her life. Doctors who have been exposing vaccine links to autism such as Dr Jeff Bradstreet often meet an unpleasant sudden end while England's Dr Andrew Wakefield has suffered hugely for speaking out about this monumental scandal.

Autism is a symptom of heavy metal poisoning. Most autistic children lack the ability to detoxify mercury from the brain, which may have entered through their mother's dental fillings but more than likely through vaccination. Thimerosal - a preservative in vaccines which contains mercury - is a chemical known to cause birth defects, nervous system disorders, numbness in the extremities and mental retardation. But it's also the spark that lights the fires of autism as well as Alzheimer's. Autism is the result of high mercury exposure in early life versus Alzheimers which is a chronic accumulation of mercury over a lifetime. Don't forget 99% of doctors will tell you to vaccinate your child but 0% of them will accept responsibility when your child is injured by that vaccine. Japan now ranks at the top of the world's lowest infant mortality rate. The Japanese government banned the MMR (Measles, Mumps, Rubella) vaccine in 1993 after numerous children suffered adverse reactions. It has also outlawed the Hep B vaccine, and in 2013, banned the HPV following thousands of adverse reactions. Yet Irish political parties and doctors have known for decades these deadly injections are harming children but they continue to give them.

Autism is virtually unknown in unvaccinated children and in countries that do not vaccinate. If you're over 50, you'll know there were no autistic children around when you were growing up. That's because there was no MMR and plethora of injections given to children. Vaccinations have been deliberately lied about through erroneous statistics, falsified data and faulty studies funded by the very companies that make them. No conflict of interest there!

Probably the greatest lie ever told is that vaccines are safe and effective. Sadly for so many Irish children, their parents discover too late. Don't you ever wonder why our children's health is going down the drain? Good health will never ever come through the end of a needle.

VACCINES CONTAIN TOXIC INGREDIENTS THAT SHOULD NEVER BE INJECTED:

Aborted Fetal Cells mercury Aluminum
E. coli Polysorbate 20 Polysorbate 80 Animal Parts
 Spermicide EDTA Insect Cells Latex Rubber Monkey Kidney Cells
 Pig Sorbitol Detergent Beta-Propiolactone Glutaraldehyde
 Blood Genetically Modified Yeast Formaldehyde GM MSG monosodium glutamate Barium

Do these sound healthy to you?

(P)Harma knows about link

ONE damning example of government-industry knowledge about a vaccine-autism connection appeared in a leaked 2011 document from GlaxoSmithKline, one of the world's largest vaccine manufacturers.

It admits the corporation was aware of an autism risk associated with its Infanrix vaccine, which combines diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, hepatitis B, inactivated polio and haemophilus influenza viruses. The report details adverse effects associated with autism, including encephalitis, developmental delays, altered states of consciousness and speech delays. While these revelations should be considered criminal cover-ups that directly threaten public health, they've had no effect on changing national policy over vaccine safety. GSK said the risk was not deemed to be problematic. Why wouldn't they! In an Italian court in 2014, Infanrix was ruled to be responsible for a young Milan boy developing autism after the vaccine. The official denial of a link between vaccines and autism has hardened into an absolute dogma. As research from around the world proving a relationship increases, almost none of it is coming from within medical institutions or government.

Catholic Camps cause media meltdown

THE mainstream media in Ireland provide no end of entertainment these days when they're not making fools of themselves defending the actions of the totalitarian puppet government. One of their most hysterical outbursts recently was their reaction to the news that Catholic summer camps for Irish boys were being organised by the Irish Society For Christian Civilisation.

This courageous Catholic organisation teaches children and young people about the Faith and way of life our ancestors aspired to living and protecting over centuries following the arrival of St Patrick to our shores. Imagine! Irish people wanting their children to be Catholic instead of telling them there are 60 genders, that men can have babies and women should kill their unborn babies.

The camps teach boys about chivalry, virtue, purity - the qualities necessary to stand up against the degeneracy, blasphemy and impurity of their chaotic society - and how to be strong, protective and moral men at a time when modern culture is trying to turn them into women.

There are lessons on the lives of the saints and the importance of Ireland's long struggle to save Catholicism during centuries of persecution.

The camps include daily Mass, outings to places of Catholic significance around the country such as Glendalough and Clonmacnoise, devotion to Our Lady and the Holy Rosary, and promotion of the pro-life message in their everyday lives.

When the media got wind of the fact that the camps were proving to be a huge success and extremely popular among the growing number of Irish parents who are realising the greatest loss to Ireland has been the demise of the Faith, the inevitable hatched job followed.

Shrieks of 'far right extremism' and 'conspiracy theorists on the loose' could be heard in newsrooms around the country as attack articles were churned out about the camps in one of the most embarrassing episodes of Catholic-bashing we have seen for a long time.

The Journal's headline was one of the most laughable, claiming 'locals were concerned' about one such camp taking place in Kildare because it was encouraging

youngsters to break away from the 'filth of the world' (ie the sexual depravity they are exposed to every day which is ruining the innocence and joy of childhood.)

The article lambasted the idea that boys should be taught to reject and fight 'immorality, blasphemy and impurity in the world.' Anonymous locals were said to be terrified at this idea and that young men might be equipped with manly courage as they grow into adulthood. Heaven forbid!

Why not stick with the State's rainbow indoctrination which lures them into the miserable gay lifestyle where they are thought to believe they should wear dresses, that the body's waste disposal unit is a sex organ and that being 'gay' is the be all and end all of everything, never mentioning that it is likely to leave them crippled physically and mentally throughout their lives as a result.

Sexual immorality is the ultimate form of political control. Once the children of Ireland have been turned into tattooed, vaping sexbots, you can say goodbye to the nation and everything that was once great about our country. The atheistic State can indoctrinate its Godless and sick agendas into the minds of our children all day every day in their Marxist training camps known as schools but when parents try to protect their own flesh and blood and raise them with Christian virtues, they are attacked and call 'far right' extremists.

We have often said that the media is determined to kill itself and does not need us to expedite that process because it will do so itself. It is funded by big government and big corporations like Big Harma that it is supposed to hold to account.

Publishing this sort of trash and calling it 'news' will bring it closer to its ultimate demise so let them at it. Every day, they drive another nail into their own coffin, manifested in plummeting circulation figures that are close to the ground. Once the brainwashing comes to an end and the mainstream media buries itself, we can look forward to a return to sanity and a much brighter future for our country and our children.

Mask Dangers Exposed

A GERMAN team, led by an independent surgeon in private practice, has published a damning review of mask use. The Kisielinski study found the following:

- 4.5 billion people (58%) were confronted with a "mask obligation"
- Fresh air has 0.04% CO2
- Wearing masks more than 5 minutes: 1.4 to 3.2% CO2

Carbon Dioxide Re-breathing

- Surgical mask after 30 min: 2.8-3.2% CO2 (U.Butz, 2005)
- N95 after 1 min: 0.9% CO2 (T.Blad, 2020)
- N95 after 5 min: 1.28% to 3.52% (Sinkule, 2013)
- N95 after 60 min: 2.8-3.2% (Roberge, 2010)

Acute CO2 Toxicity

- 10 min of 2.5-3.5% CO2 increases cerebral blood flow by 100% causing headaches
- Also hyperventilation, metabolic changes (acidosis)

Chronic CO2 Toxicity (Animal Studies)

- 0.3% CO2: irreversible neuron damage, neuron destruction, increased anxiety, impaired learning and memory (rat studies)
- 0.5% CO2: testicular toxicity in adolescents (rat studies show diminished fertility in

Mask study published by NIH suggests N95 Covid masks may expose wearers to dangerous level of toxic compounds linked to seizures and cancer

- A study published in April found disposable masks can have toxic chemicals
- Experts said this could make newly instated mask mandates ineffective

A recent Daily Mail headline about the dangers of masks came three years too late rat testes after one 4 hour exposure at 2.5% CO2)

- 0.8% CO2: stillbirths (safety level set by US Navy for female submarine crew, due to rat studies showing fetal malformations, post implantation loss, lower probability of viable fetuses)

Other Findings

- N95 masks and surgical masks performed at their worst with coronavirus and influenza virus particles
- Children: Data on a total of 25,930 children wearing face masks for 270 min per day showed that 68% complained about discomfort. Side effects included irritability (60%), headache (53%), difficulty concentrating (50%), less happiness (49%), reluctance to go to school/kindergarten (44%), malaise (42%), impaired learning (38%) and drowsiness/fatigue (37%)

- Any mandatory masking of pregnant women in the real world exceeds the CO2 toxicity limit set by US Navy for female submarine crew

Stillbirths

- Are mask mandates responsible for 28% rise in stillbirths worldwide?
- Italy: Three-fold increase in stillbirths during lockdown period Mar-May 2020. 42% of US female surgeons lost a pregnancy Nov.2020-Feb.2021
- Sweden: no mask mandates, no increase in stillbirths.

■ Mechanism: increased CO2 and acidity in blood trigger compensatory mechanisms that lead to calcifications in placenta

- CO2 plays a role in oxidative stress which would impede fetal body development, lead to DNA mutations
- CO2 can increase inflammation leading to an imbalanced immune response, procoagulant state and early pregnancy loss.
- Some evidence N95 mask use by pregnant women could result in their children having significantly reduced verbal, motor and overall cognitive performance.

Children and Adolescents

- Children are not small adults
- 0.3% CO2 exposure to adolescent brain neurons can cause neuronal destruction, anxiety and impaired learning and memory (Uysal, 2014)

- 0.3% CO2: neurons die off (apoptosis), especially under exercise or stress.
- CO2 can destroy spermatid and Sertoli cells in testes
- Damaging mechanism of CO2 in testes is oxidative stress, acidosis, increased inflammation and apoptosis.
- CO2 toxicity to testes has been known for 60 years.

• This study is one of the most comprehensive on the dangers of masks with 172 references. These are the key findings. For more information about the study, see www.globalresearch.ca.

Daly and Wallace Clown Show

FOR some Irish people who are awake to the One-World Government agenda that has left our country unrecognisable, MEPs Clare Daly and Mick Wallace can seem like a breath of fresh air. Their seemingly impassioned speeches about the hypocrisy of the EU's support for the war in Ukraine have lured many's a red-pilled patriot to their ranks but once again all is not what it may seem. While the pair might come across as great pacifists spouting on about Russia not being the big baddie it's made out to be, let's look closer to home because after all they are paid to represent the Irish people.

All the time people are dropping 'dead suddenly' in horrific numbers, Daly and Wallace turned a blind eye, dumbstruck in the middle of a vaccine genocide.

And they really showed their true colours recently when they appeared before the European Parliament masked up. After almost four years of the greatest hoax ever played on the public, they are still going along with the scam.

Compromised or controlled along the way, this pair of clowns epitomise everything that is wrong with politics and why it is not the solution to our problems not least because the voting system is rigged, at council, national and European level. Don't waste your time on elections. Protect your property, family, children and walk away from the corrupt State because it plans to devour you if you don't.

The Tubridy Show Trial

John Waters on the RTE charade designed to restore public trust in the national fraudcaster which is heading for the dustbin of history

IN considering the future of media, globally or locally, we would do well to consider what happened in the US presidential election towards the end of August, when the candidate who is running away with the Republican primaries contest, Donald Trump, ignored the candidates' debate on television and instead was interviewed by Tucker Carlson for his show transmitted via the 'social media platforms' - Twitter (X) and Telegram. On these channels, the favourite to win the presidency, from outside the political mainstream, was interviewed by a journalist recently sacked by a 'leading' network TV channel, on platforms which were not long ago considered of minority interest, attracting audiences of many multiples what they might command on any mainstream platform. To put it slightly differently, a triumvirate of 'contrarians' - Donald Trump, Tucker Carlsons and Elon Musk - who have all given two-fingers to the mainstream, were now dictating the direction of both American politics and global media. A revolution that had been in train for perhaps two decades was approaching a crescendo moment, when the power of the mainstream media would drain away, to be supplanted by the rising power of what was once the margins.

This moment had seemed a long time coming. Despite the growth in popularity of social media, YouTube, Netflix and other 'alternative' platforms, the mainstream remained puzzlingly strong. While the audiences of network television in the US, and terrestrial television in Europe, were gradually eroding, there was little evidence that a moment of implosion was imminent. The old model had been bolstered by the Covid scam, beginning in the spring of 2020, when audiences around the world were summoned to attend before their TV sets to be given the information that would - purportedly - save their lives. Ironically, this may have been the undoing of the old broadcast media, since it sowed the seeds of an unprecedented mistrust in the mainstream that arose from a flipping of journalistic models - from telling the truth to lying relentlessly, morning til night. Although the propaganda campaign rolling out through 2020, 2021, 2022 and into 2023 was hugely 'successful' in duping the public concerning the Covid hoax, the necessity for an unprecedented - unheard of - lockdown, and the rollout of a deadly poison masquerading as a vaccine, the seeds of mistrust were being sowed and the media was essentially breaking its own credibility up and burning it to stay warm. Although great swathes of the publics of multiple countries were cowed into silence, a slow-burning disenchantment was setting in. Imperceptibly at first, then markedly, then in their droves, the viewers and listeners began to switch off from the mendacious mainstream channels. Because the print media had become as corrupted as the broadcast platforms, there was no formal discussion of this development, and to a high degree we had to rely on anecdotal evidence and occasional bizarre occurrences that dramatised the panic setting in at the headquarters of once titanic broadcasting organisations - now discovering from secret polling and focus groups that the public was turning against them.

One bizarre episode involving a previous virtual-monopoly broadcaster serves to illustrate the response to these developments. This was the strange series of events that dominated the Irish news cycle for several weeks in July and August 2023, involving the so-called 'national broadcaster', RTÉ, and its mode of remunerating some of its more high-profile presenters, in particular Ryan Tubridy, the former presenter of the Late Late Show.

Suddenly, it was as though a new policy of zero tolerance of chicanery had been formulated and launched without announcement. Within hours, it seemed, a series of Show Trials had been scheduled in the Houses of Parliament - the Oireachtas - and witnesses were summonsed to come before these hearings to account for their actions and records.

For many observers, it was a bit hard, to say the least, to take seriously the notion of RTÉ as a paragon of virtue - cleaning house, sweeping its side of the street, binning the bad apples, hanging its laundered smalls from the upstairs windows, and painting over the cracks on its frontage that have been widening alarmingly over the previous 40 months. RTÉ - let us not put a tooth in it - had turned into a criminal organisation. For many years - and lethally since early 2020 - it had pursued agendas inimical the interests and welfare of the Irish people, without regard for truth, decency or human life. Now, we were supposed to take seriously the idea that it was putting itself in the dock, to be interrogated by the corrupt members of the Oireachtas who had, in the previous 40 months, voted through on the nod innumerable attacks on freedom, democracy and the rule of law. With its transmission mast continuing to tower over the southern half of Ireland's rapidly disintegrating capital - implying that it was still in the business of broadcasting truth - RTÉ had capitalised on the fraudulently hatched conditions of the previous three-and-a-half years to generate ill-gotten revenues as a means of postponing its own overdue and inevitable demise, using the people's property and resources to sabotage the national conversation with malicious propaganda, and offering its front-of-house 'talent' as a stable of assassins to defame, smear and vilify anyone with the temerity to take up the slack in fulfilling the only role or purpose of a national broadcaster: telling the people what is really happening - otherwise, 'the truth.'

The idea that an organisation that for 40 months had covered up systematic criminality by the political, medical and pharmaceutical classes becoming outraged by the spectacle of an under-the-table payment to a disc-jockey was beyond laughable. What we were witnessing was a pseudo-event in the style of the pseudo-reality the 'national' broadcaster had been generating for the previous three and a half years. The purpose of this pseudo-event was to rehabilitate the 'national' broadcaster - long collapsed as any kind of moral institution or reliable witness to Ireland's collective affairs - so as to render it capable of assisting further the dark forces in control of our country as they sought to accomplish the final stages of the destruction of Ireland and her people. It was, in short, an attempt to re-establish a fiction of rectitude at the heart of the 'national' broadcaster's public image. The Tubridy saga was an engineered way of sneakily buying back credibility by offering up its (outgoing) director-general, and one of its 'star' players, who was already half-departed.

There can be little doubt that the intermittent subterranean research and focus group activity that is generally a standard element of the armouries of such organisations had for some time been indicating growing unhappiness among RTÉ customers as to the direction being taken by the station. Some of this may have emerged as general rumblings of disgruntlement rather than specific 'concerns' about, say, the boorish behaviour of RTÉ 'personalities' in, for example, the matter of Covid and Covid beings are regarded as bothersome cannon fodder, that would be simply unthinkable. A different strategy was called for.

Obviously, too, the pseudo-event should not impinge on anything real or significant. It could not open any of the boxes that might conceivably have arisen as possible contexts in the research or focus groups seeking pus liberated and washed away. What was called for was a brief controlled explosion, followed by a long, amnesia-inducing break: 'Move along there - nothing (else) to see here!'

Somebody came up with the brilliant idea of ventilating the topic of the outrageous salaries being 'earned' by some of RTÉ's 'star' presenters. Everyone had broadcasting tax, to be collected by the Revenue Commissioners from every householder, regardless of whether the household in question even possessed a device capable of picking up the 'national' broadcaster's content.

The idea that broadcasting is capable of enhancing democracy is, of course, a good one: freedom requires freedom of speech, democracy thrives on an open conversation. For some time, however, these 'luxuries' have not been available to the Irish people, who have suffered under tyrannical administrations assisted by profoundly corrupted media. RTÉ has not, for a very long time, functioned to represent the culture or aspiration of something like half of the Irish population. Recent referendum campaigns have shown that at least one in three Irish voters is utterly alienated from the version of reality peddled by the 'national' broadcaster. To insist that everybody must contribute to the continuance of this travesty is therefore nonsensical and profoundly unjust.

The issue is not merely 'celebrity' salaries. How long has it been since a single honest cent was earned by anyone working for RTÉ? Since the spring of 2020, the so-called 'national' broadcaster has offered itself up as a lie factory for the purposes of duping, terrifying and imprisoning the Irish people, functions for which it has been paid handsomely out of the public coffers. In the past two years, as excess deaths in every part of this country reached levels unprecedented since the Great Genocides of the 1840s, the 'national' broadcaster examined its footwear, pausing only to demonise as a 'conspiracy theorist' anyone seeking to draw attentions to this phenomenon. In these circumstances, the idea that there is something especially egregious about Ryan Tubridy's remuneration is beyond absurd.

Everything about RTÉ is tainted. All of its prior record as a voice of our democracy and society is shredded and laid waste. It has disgraced itself beyond contemplation. It has betrayed the Irish people - its owners and ultimate sponsors - by assisting in a transparent conspiracy to strip them of their rights and freedoms, plunder their property and wealth, and deliver their children up to a life of digital slavery and exploitation by predators, perverts and rapists. RTÉ is rotten from its very foundations, and should be demolished in all senses, including the most literal, its buildings razed to the ground.

'vaccines', or the way the station had been to the fore in shoving its obsession with LGBT filth down the throats of the public and the public's offspring for the previous decade. After many years of non-stop abuse of its own customers, a smokescreen of some kind was required.

Needless to say, the possibility of actually returning to being a national broadcaster - of standing down the bullying, intimidation, lies and gaslighting, and actually covering the questions and concerns bearing down upon RTÉ's audience members in ways reflecting their actual experiences and feelings - was ruled out. In an era when most of the station's income came from sources and sectors wherein human an understanding of the public's sense of the ethical debasement and decline in credibility of the onetime national broadcaster. The Covid box, for example, could definitely not be opened. The mass migration box was best not peered into. The Ukraine box had to be kept closed and locked, lest it emerge that Ireland had been supporting actually existing nazis. And so forth. What was required was some matter of controversy that might previously have rubbed up public opinion in a negative manner. The purpose, in other words, was to draw the attention of the public to a controversy that, once dealt with and resolved, would leave everyone with the sense that all the boils had been lanced and all the stinking long been aware of RTÉ as an out-of-control gravy-train - that people like Tubridy, Joe Duffy and Claire Byrne were being grotesquely overpaid, especially since they were individuals of minimal talent whose chief role was in controlling the national conversation to see that no unapproved voices were given free rein. Now, the moment had arrived when, in the interest of saving the station, one or two of them could be thrown under the bus. Hence, the great 'celebrity salaries' controversy of the summer of 2023.

No sooner had the Show Trials ended than RTÉ unabashedly announced that it would be prepared to forego the licence fee in return for the introduction of a

Husband given Midazolam and Morphine two days after he died

Grieving Elena's mission to find out truth

by JACQUI DEEVOY

WHEN Elena Vlaica's 54-year-old husband Stuart was euthanised in hospital in Cornwall, England in November 2021 after being put on a barbaric end of life 'care' pathway, he was given further doses of killer drugs for two days after he died.

No one can explain why. Here, Elena shares the final devastating part of her shocking story.

Nurse Elena said: "My Stuart went into hospital on October 26, 2021 with shortness of breath and a suspected chest infection. Because of the Covid rules, I wasn't allowed to visit.

"I found out later, he'd had a DNR [Do Not Resuscitate order] put on him. The reason given for that in his notes, which I managed to get with the help of a solicitor, was that he possibly had Covid and was unvaccinated.

"He'd also been put on midazolam and morphine without either of our consent. I only discovered this later, when I saw his notes, and also found out that he'd been put on 'fast-track end of life care', which was introduced at the start of the pandemic and allowed a consultant to decide whether a patient lives or dies.

"His regular meds - blood pressure tablets and antidepressants - were withdrawn and he started having side-effects.

"He developed flu-like symptoms - very common with sudden antidepressant withdrawal - and he became anxious because he couldn't breathe due to his lungs being full of fluid.

"So they gave him more Midazolam and Morphine, which - not surprisingly, as those two drugs used together suppress respiration - made him worse.

"Over the course of 11 days, they gave him 100 mgs of Midazolam. I also found out that he was starved for 11 days. He wasn't even given water during that time.

"When I eventually got to see him - I was called in on November 6 because I was told he was dying - he was naked in the bed. Staff said that, because he'd tried to escape four times, they cut off his clothes and catheterised him. Stuart was a big man - 120 kilograms - and it took four people to pin him down. All this to stop him running away.

"When I arrived at his bedside, although he was heavily sedated, I know that he knew I was there. When I kissed him, I saw his blood pressure and heart rate improving on the sats monitor.

"I'm a trained nurse so could easily see this. When I mentioned this to the junior doctor, she walked across the room and switched off the monitor. At that moment, a nurse appeared with five 10ml syringes on a blue tray. She pushed two of them into Stuart's cannula, he took three breaths, then died in my arms. I cried out, "She killed him!" and started to cry. She killed my Stuart. I don't remember getting home.

"It was only after I got hold of his notes that I discovered the full horror of what Stuart had endured. One of the strangest and most shocking things, though, was the fact that he'd been medicated after he'd been euthanised.

"He died on November 6, but was given more Morphine and Midazolam on the 7th and 8th. I have the paperwork. What does it mean? To me, it looks as if someone was absolutely making sure he was dead. But I don't know. Any other reasons are unthinkable.

"I reported it to the police and to the hospital. They had meetings behind my back and decided that in the 11 days Stuart was in hospital, he'd received 'outstanding care'. They refused to address any of my other concerns.

"To this day, I have no idea why they'd give medication to a dead man. In some ways, I don't want to think about it, but in other ways I know, to get justice for Stuart, I have to find out."

Justice for Aaron Brady

Gemma O'Doherty on the upcoming appeal of Aaron Brady for a murder he did not commit

ON Monday, October 2nd 2023, Aaron Brady will walk into Dublin's Criminal Courts of Justice for the hearing of his appeal against his unlawful conviction for the murder of Garda Adrian Donohoe.

It has been a tortuous wait for the young father who was framed by the Gardai on the word of a member of Dublin's gangland and a mentally ill young woman who was ordered to tell lies about him.

From the moment Aaron was pinpointed by corrupt Gardai, every single law in the book was broken in relation to his arrest, detention and questioning. Countless witnesses were coerced, blackmailed and intimidated. There has never been such a grotesque miscarriage of justice against an Irish person in the history of the State.

At the time of Adrian Donohoe's murder at the rural Credit Union in Lordship, Dundalk, Co Louth in January 2013, Aaron Brady was on the other side of the border in Armagh laundering diesel in the pouring rain to make some extra cash. Later that evening, several hours after the murder, he met up with a friend and drove south to Lordship to stay the night in his house. That is why the following morning he drove into a Garda checkpoint in the area where he was asked to account for his movements the night before. Aaron, not wanting the PSNI to be informed about his diesel laundering activities, lied to the Garda about his whereabouts.

We know with certainty that Aaron was in Crossmaglen in Northern Ireland in the hours after the murder because independent witnesses have confirmed they were with him, including the family of his then girlfriend whom he was with for several hours after the time of the murder around 9.30pm. The Gardai expect us to believe that a man who had just killed an officer in a botched robbery would drive back over the border into the North only to return back into the South near the scene of the crime hours later, knowing the place would be crawling with checkpoints. It simply beggars belief.

Some days after the murder in January 2013, Aaron went into the local station in Dundalk and told lead investigator Mark Phillips that he was diesel laundering at the time of the murder. However, Phillips never went to the yard near Crossmaglen to establish if Aaron had been there through CCTV footage, DNA or other sightings. Instead, Dundalk Gardai began a long campaign of intimidation and harassment against Aaron and his family using the corrupt mainstream media as their main weapon of aggression and defamation.

Tabloid stories were pumped out about him claiming he was the man who had killed Donohoe. The rumour mill went into overdrive. The pressure on Aaron became intense and he decided to leave his family and begin a new life in Boston.

Aaron found a job in construction, got married to his Irish girlfriend and had a baby boy. He was working hard and building a new life for himself when the Gardai started to hunt him down and the tabloid press published pictures of him linking him to the murder.

He moved to New York where he frequented some of the Irish bars where compromised illegals involved in drugs were offered deals in return for dirt on Aaron. There was none. And so the Gardai sought to invent it.

The star witness for the Prosecution is a notorious thug from Coolock, Dublin where he was actively involved in paramilitary outfits and gangland. Daniel Cahill was illegal in the US and in possession of drugs when the Gardai visited him in his apartment spending several hours coercing him to tell lies about Aaron. Cahill was also wanted in relation to an attack with a machete on a young Irish man. A statement was concocted whereby he claimed Aaron had told him he had 'shot a cop'. Aaron had never said such a thing.

Another compromised witness was recruited by Gardai - a mentally unstable Irish American called Molly Staunton from Woodlawn clearly being put under duress and the case for the Prosecution was a shambles.

Instead, Aaron was sent down for 40 years for a crime he had absolutely nothing to do with.

In the ten years since the murder of Donohoe, not one shred of evidence has been found to link Aaron to the crime. In fact all of the evidence that has emerged since points clearly to his innocence.

He is significantly smaller in height than the person identified by Donohoe's colleague Detective Joe Ryan who was present with him on the night of the murder. There is not one trace of DNA or physical evidence linking Aaron to the scene. There are countless other inconsistencies and blatant falsehoods in the Garda narrative - as outlined over the course of three years by Aaron's courageous father, Tony Brady in the hundreds of videos he has made about the case. Some of them are simply mind-boggling in terms of how they got away with what they did to Aaron. You can follow the campaign here: www.justice4aaronbrady.com.

If the Gardai and the State prosecutor Brendan Grehan SC had any sense, they would release Aaron Brady immediately and admit they were wrong. Donohoe's wife Caroline - a Garda - also knows there is no evidence against him. Does she not want the real killers to be caught? If not, why not?

Is there more to Donohoe's killing than meets the eye?

Either way, the Gardai continue to dig a deep hole for themselves as more and more people become aware of the case and believe that Aaron has been framed. The truth always comes out in the end. And it will, in time, here.

In the meantime please do everything you can to support Aaron and his family who have been put through hell, by showing your support on the day in court. There but for the grace of God go any of us. Aaron could be your son. You would want people to stand by you if he was. We cannot allow innocent young men to be sent to jail for crimes they did not commit. When you stay silent in the face of a terrible injustice like this, you are compliant with it.

Infiltration Nation

‘For we are opposed around the world by a monolithic and ruthless conspiracy that relies primarily on covert means for expanding its sphere of influence - on infiltration instead of invasion...’

‘It is a system that has conscripted vast human and natural resources into the building of a tightly knit, highly efficient machine that combines military, diplomatic, intelligence, economic, scientific and political operations’

John F Kennedy’s speech to the American press in April 1961, which exposed the modus of the Jewish militia in taking control of every organ of power and influence in the US, cuts right to the heart of why and how Ireland has fallen into the hands of foreign interlopers who prey on naive Irish people to bring about their globalist revolution dressed in the guise of ‘conservatism’.

Infiltration is their weapon of choice and it has proven successful far beyond any other method. One only has to look at the disgraced Vatican to see how it has been infested by Sodomite demons intent on destroying the Church founded by Jesus Christ. Communists like Bella Dodd who later converted have explained how it was done.

What has become patently clear in the last year is that the so-called ‘Right’ in Ireland is even more infiltrated than the ‘Left’, which is saying something. Where do we start? The money-grabbing Yellow Vests and their sidekick Gilroy; mentally-challenged freemason stooge Dolores Cahill; script-reader Tracey O’Mahony with her fantasy court case and fraudulent fund-raiser, her lowlife boyfriend Satirical Soldier who proposes rape as a punishment for gay protestors and makes a fool of himself every time he opens his mouth; madman Darragh O’Flaherty who’s threatening ‘to beat Varadkar’s skull in with his bare f***** hands’ and preparing ‘to kill’ vaccinators; (hate speech quick! See how they set it all up?) buffoons Hermann Kelly, Peadar Toibin and Gript clown John McGuirk - promoters of the vaccine genocide; the farcical Lawyers 4 Justice outfit (nothing to say here except weep); MSM liar Aisling O’Loughlin, Garda loudmouths Blighe, Dwyer and drug-dealer Andy Heasman and on and on.

In a word, mortifying.

Trolls everywhere are now screaming ‘Unite! Unite!’ With these ubergoons? No thanks. Unless you want to hammer the final nail into the coffin of Ireland. To be fair, a lot of these morons are under MK Ultra mind control programmes but that’s still no excuse.

The newest scheme operating in Ireland is this time run by foreign interlopers with dubious backgrounds who are carrying out a data harvesting operation on Irish home-schoolers and other members of the awkward squad who have chosen to protect their children from the menacing claws of the paedophile State.

Perfectly groomed ‘Mam’, as she cringingly calls herself, Jana Lunden is the poster girl of ‘Think Local’ - a ‘grassroots’ organisation set up to ‘rebuild communities’ in Ireland in a more ‘sustainable’ way: words which have been co-opted by the globalists to mean Wipeout of the West and should by now set off alarm bells in the heads of the initiated. Scratch beneath the surface of Jana and you’ll find she is way too sweet to be wholesome or remotely genuine.

So we did a deep dive on this Plastic Patty Come Lately and was not in any way surprised by what we found.

‘American Jana’ is the daughter of a Maine freemason who was in active service in the US Air Force and prison system for decades. Military and prison background? Never a good sign. She moved here some twenty years ago as part of the management team that set up the shady Bank of America shell outfit in Carrick-On-Shannon, Co. Leitrim, at a time when Irish sheep were being told by the lying media it should be a source of huge national pride that crime-ridden US banks wanted to settle in little old Ireland. It was of course nothing more than a giant money laundering and surveillance scam because these basket entities knew corruption was the pastime du jour of the ruling class over here. That is why they chose to come.

America’s second biggest bank after JPMorgan Chase, BOA has been exposed as one of the most corrupt financial entities in the world. Its primary function is to entrap vulnerable customers into the Rothschild debt slavery system and then destroy their lives by foreclosing on them and throwing them out of their homes or businesses.

But it also operates as a data collection surveillance agency for the FBI/CIA, spying on conservative-leaning customers and passing their data over to State agencies. BOA take their responsibilities to the woke agenda so seriously that they have training courses for staff on how to be LGBT++ activists and promote all the nefarious Jewish agendas like mass immigration, climate hoax and abortion that have brought the Christian West to its knees. What's that got to do with banking, you may ask. Absolutely nothing.

Behind the fake charade of finance, it works hand in glove with government and other Leftist agencies to hunt down 'extremists' as in nation-loving patriots, Rosary-praying Catholics and home-schooling types who might be exploring ways of existing outside the Big Brother debt system or financially supporting organisations that try to do so. It also ran laundering operations internationally to infiltrate right-leaning groups and political parties abroad or set up new ones designed to lure conservatives into the vipers' nest.

That's where we suggest Jana comes in, though we're expected to believe she left this seedy world behind to replace Sinead O'Connor as the new Mother Eire. Maybe she played no hand, act or part in the aforementioned corruption even though she was a senior manager at the bank but we still need to find out who she really is.

As is often the case with intelligence assets, she started off as a single-issue asset, focusing on transgenderism by highlighting the lurid content of children's library books as a street 'activist'. But some say she acts more like a groomer.

Colluding with notorious drug-dealer Andy '100-troll-accounts' Heasman and Cork agent provocateur Ross Lahive, who worked for the CIA-run 'Chyna'-bashing Epoch Times in New York and has recently been seen going around assaulting library staff as part of the gang's ploy to do reputational damage to the traditional cause to justify hate laws, she started rallying right-leaning Catholic parents to her gatherings where she would stand with large posters of the front page of these depraved children's books, almost as if to publicise them.

New Age atheists like Jana, who openly dabbles in the occult, are in the business of hiding their dark activities in plain sight. While promoting sexual degeneracy on the streets of Ireland for all to see but outwardly pretending to be opposed to it, they are also able to lure innocent parents to their ranks, collect their private data and send it back to base where it can be used against naive families at a later date. TUSLA visit perhaps? Revenue audit on a small business? Fake Garda complaint maybe?

It has now emerged that Jana's desire to 'save the children of Ireland' from the LGBT++ cult is little more than a fraudulent show put on for the last year to suck in Irish people with a genuine interest in shielding our young from the depravity all around them.

Her behaviour regarding the privacy of her own two small children leaves a lot to be desired. She posts pictures of them widely on her social media platforms. She confirm or deny whether this is the case. So we will say for now that we do not know. But we have a right to, given that she has put herself forward as the face of the 'truth movement' and 'saviour of Irish children'.

The fact that she is an immigrant is another problem. For too long, we as Irish people have been bossed around by outsiders, especially Americans. Indeed it is one of our greatest weaknesses. Why do we all sorts of New Age quackery as part of its stated objective to 'build communities' at a 'grassroots' level, in other words a form of 'communitarianism' ie communism: control of the many by the few.

Why would a banker Yank appoint herself as the leader of a movement that wants to 'build Irish communities'? If she is so dedicated to protecting nationhood, why isn't she inspired to save her own country which goodness knows needs it?

It's no wonder she's able to set up her stage and speakers in front of Leinster House. Face it. She's just another cog in the regime.

Think Local' also promised to promote Ireland's 'cultural heritage' but only that which came before St Patrick. In other words, pagan witchery. Nothing about the 1500 years of Christianity which is our core identifying feature as a people and what we were known for all around the world, before being Judaised?

Indeed 'Think Local' is so dedicated to building Irish culture, five of its 'organisers' recently gave a speech about the festival's contrived cancellation in July and every single one of them was foreign.

Visitors to the festival are subjected to occult activities such as drumming circles which drive subjects into a trance and 'alter their consciousness' while the children get to have their faces painted (gateway to tattooing) with butterflies (check the symbolism). Really wholesome.

I hope by now you are seeing through this latest almighty scam to deceive the 'far right'.

We don't need 'built communities', thank you, Jana. Our parishes have always evolved naturally with strong Irish families and Christian morals as their bedrock. If we are to survive this current existential crisis as a nation, we must begin at home, but firstly with the individual as an army of one. Forming herds, clubs and networking mouthpiece organisations which nurture groupthink is exactly what got us into this mess.

And even if they start with good intentions, they will inevitably be infiltrated and taken over by the monied creeps who hide like snakes in the long grass to slither in and gobble them up.

Remember. No group is coming to save you. Yes, form friendships with like-minded people and encourage neighbours to waken up but don't sign up to any organisations. Because at this stage we should all have learned that none of them can be trusted. To borrow the words of a song...

We don't need another Jana.

We don't need to be told the way home.

Don't make the same mistake next time!

● Gemma O'Doherty is a multi award-winning investigative reporter whose work has led to the reopening of murder cases including that of Fr Niall Molloy and Mary Boyle

American banker Jana Lunden posing in the street with her explicit posters promoting books that should be banned

even went into battle with Facebook when they banned her account for posting a picture of her naked son painting his stomach. Any sensible parent who puts their children's happiness, safety and privacy above all else knows how dangerous it is to post their pictures online as they can be stolen by nefarious actors and violated in the most horrific of ways. Yet Jana seems almost to encourage her followers to post them.

Another image has emerged allegedly of Jana promoting the abortion referendum using her child. She did not deny it was hers when asked. Could it be the case that she only wants to save children who are out of the womb?

We also asked if her husband Stewart Sadler is the same Stewart Sadler who works for Big Harma killer Astra Zeneca in Dublin. People who ask these legitimate questions are either blocked or defamed by Jana who will neither need an American to represent the voice of Irish children and parents, especially one with such a dubious background whose previous employer was in the business of throwing families out of their homes? And nowhere do we see Jana speaking out against mass immigration which is annihilating our culture. Difficult to do when you're an immigrant yourself. But the reality is she actually pushes immigration as part of her circus act.

Jana also did a stint with the disgraced Paypal which has sought to crush the livelihoods of Christian businesses, journalists and anyone speaking out against the globalist totalitarian regime. More dots joined.

Jana's 'Think Local' organisation is a more advanced entrapment scheme for small businesses, organic farmers, holistic services and all manner of system rejectors. It hosts talking heads, festivals and

Or does she mean 'Build Back Better'? Because Communitarianism is exactly that. A byword for the 'Great Reset' or 'Agenda 2030'. It works by pulling together all the entrepreneurial or activist types in the community and putting in place control mechanisms to keep them in line. Once you're in the herd and go against it, you'll be ostracised, punished or publicly shamed.

When you take a closer look at Jana's 'Think Local' festival, you see the same old globalist scams and faux eco-concepts emerging like 'sustainability', 'renewables' and other impoverishment schemes designed to bring us back to serfdom. Even their 'polytunnels' are run by SMART spyware, Apple surveillance and SIRI voice commands no less. Talk about going off-grid!

Of course, entry to the festival is pay-in-advance-in-order-to-get-your-data.

Gemma O'Doherty on the latest attacks against her.

I'VE been the Irish establishment's Number 1 enemy for many years now especially since I started naming their paymaster general - the International Jew - as the key perpetrator of the crimes which are bringing about the end of Ireland and Western civilisation. As far as I know, no other high-profile person in the so-called 'truth movement' in Ireland is doing so, not because they don't agree with my position but because they're too afraid to come out and say it.

The latest hit job on me and The Irish Light is a co-production by the BBC and a close IRA associate. Unlikely bedfellows you might think, but I hate to say I told you so. They are and have been for a long time one and the same: two puppet criminal entities run by MI5 and funded by the Jewish suspects who are behind all so-called terrorist organisations in the world. (You may enjoy my series of videos on staged terror, available on my website, <https://gemmaodoherty.com/>)

The West Belfast 'lawyer' (I use that word advisedly) Ciaran Mulholland, who is running the farcical case against me and The Irish Light in an effort to bring hate speech laws to Ireland, is closely connected to the IRA/MI5.

Before we go into that, please note that all of your favourite 'alternative' media sources such as Gript and The Irish Inquiry have been deafeningly silent about this case even though its objective, as stated by Mulholland and RTE, is to bring in laws stifling free speech. Aren't they supposed to be the great advocates for freedom of expression!

Their boycott of the case vindicates my position once more: they are nothing more than controlled opposition stooges who give nuggets of information from time to time but will keep the gate firmly locked on hard truths such as the aforementioned: the facts that people really need suicide - which we had said was a possibility - she forgot to mention that of course - and that we were somehow abusing her by repeating a fact that was already all over the media - ie that her adult son had died suddenly.

It was obvious to anyone listening with a hint of discernment that the woman being paraded around the lying media was not of stable mind and was being exploited by Mulholland, the state fraudcaster and other media whores who could use her volatile demeanour to cover up the vaccine genocide.

This situation is now so out of control that I have predicted that the powers-that-shouldn't-be may go as far as to sacrifice or 'suicide' her to bring about their insidious objective. I say this in the hope that it might stop them from doing so and as a warning to anyone who knows her to try to protect her as she is clearly in the 'care' of some very dangerous people who are using her. Be in no doubt, the lies these blaggards have told about me for nine months are so preposterous and blatant, they are capable of anything. Putting her through this sick charade in itself is no doubt causing her extreme stress and adding to her poor mental health.

You can read the background here: <https://gemmaodoherty.substack.com/p/orwellian-ireland-ask-no-questions>. It explains why this case is so dark, involving a Garda/State/Coroner cover-up of Diego Gilsenan's death, a shambolic inquest and a litany of lies.

Mulholland's ability to go into the courts of this country, get ridiculous injunctions based on profound perjury and deceit, and stalk me in my home indicates that he is clearly not working on his own and the funding of his rabid attack on me is obviously coming from deep pocket sources. He has sought several committal orders to have me jailed because I have dared to respond to the scurrilous lies he has told about me and the paper.

In recent weeks, the MI5/BBC disinformation agent Marianna Spring - who bears all the classic hallmarks of a deranged MK-Ultra cult member - started working with him and began harassing me about the case claiming she was coming to know which explain why we are in this diabolical mess and how we get out of it.

Back to Mulholland and Co. You may remember this latest charade stems from a November 2022 edition of The Irish Light headlined 'Died Suddenly' where we featured on our front page tiny pictures of about 40 young Irish people whose 2021/22 death notices said they had 'died suddenly'. Their photographs were already widely published (ie made public) online and in the media because they had 'died suddenly'.

We did not name them and did NOT say the vaccine caused their specific deaths but said we needed to ask why so many youngsters are dying and that this is clearly the role of journalism. We also suggested that the stark rise in sudden deaths in general in Ireland could be related to suicide as well as the vaccine.

Some weeks later, a mother of one of the young adults pictured, Edel Campbell from Kingscourt in Cavan, went on RTE where she was goaded into telling the most outrageous lies about me and The Irish Light claiming that our use of the picture of her son Diego Gilsenan amounted to 'harassment', 'abuse' and 'hate'.

Diego, she said, died from to Dublin and wanted to meet me. Some chance! I ignored her tedious emails while investigating her back story and learning that she spends her days going around the UK trying to destroy the lives of actual journalists who have risked everything to expose the vaccine genocide.

Just put her name into a search on Bitchute to see some of the other people whose lives she has tried to ruin: <https://www.bitchute.com/video/I127s6bs7xsQ/> <https://www.bitchute.com/video/nLWoK04kiiPo/> <https://www.bitchute.com/video/UCaiaX2PJ0qD/>

In August, she released a pathetic hit piece on me which she did in cahoots with bullyboy Mulholland. I'm sure even the most stupefied members of the British public would be surprised to learn that the BBC is now using IRA colluders as sources. The reaction against the nonsensical piece has surprised even me and I am grateful to see that apart from some fake trolling accounts - possibly run by Marianna herself as she has admitted to using anonymous accounts to entrap 'far right conspiracy theorists' - virtually nobody has fallen for the hoax.

Needless to say, the egregious allegations against me are utter lies. Spring made the absurd claim that I have been 'abusing Campbell relentlessly.'

I have never so much as contacted or even attempted to contact Edel Campbell although we did have to block her when she started stalking us. A Twitter account in her name with her son's picture on the profile was pumping out lies about me recently in the middle of the night. As always: straight from the Marxist playbook: Accuse the other side of that which you are guilty. When we respond to the malicious lies they churn out about us in the media, they call it harassment and go straight back to court to try to silence us. Evil projection at its most sinister.

The courts KNOW this is an illegal case because it is being funded by third parties - which is forbidden in Irish law - but have nothing to say about that.

We take great satisfaction from the fact that the BBC have had to travel over to Ireland and concoct a litany of fabrications about me and the paper. It is rock solid proof that we are having a huge impact not only in Ireland but abroad. They would not feel the need to target us if we were not.

Their vacuous agent Marianna Spring has become the laughing stock of the fakestream media and that's saying something, given the level of competition involved. Her funders (Mr Vaccine Gates for one: see below) will have her discarded soon as she is bringing more ridicule on the BBC than perhaps anyone in its history. This so-called guardian of truth has been outed as a liar in The Daily Mail who report she lied on her CV by falsely claiming to have worked for the BBC when applying for a job in Moscow. It doesn't get more embarrassing. Either way, we continue our work. We grow stronger and stronger, and our team of dedicated distributors in The Irish Light are waking up their parishes and neighbourhoods every day, delivering thousands of copies to homes nationwide. Most importantly, remember, it is not me they are after, but you. I am well-protected and fear nothing except God. I have never lost as much as a cent nor any sleep on any of the fake legal actions taken against me through the years to try to silence me in my work. Either way, we are not governed by money or materialism and these matters have no concern to us whatsoever. I believe God's providence has and will look after us. We will never back down on the truth or fear the consequences of telling it. We know that we will be persecuted, abused and lied about in this world for speaking it.

I will say I've received a co-ordinated series of death threats - about 100 - as a direct result of Mulholland and Spring's lies about me. The vulgar language in them is identical - clearly coming from some form of MI5/CIA/Mossad bot farm based in Israel. I laugh when I see them flooding in because it shows how frightened they are of me and are investing so much time, money and effort trying to silence my journalism.

If they kill me, which would be their worst mistake as it would create an element of martyrdom around me and the paper, I am ready to die and have been since I took on this work and the threats that go with it. Death is, after all, the high point of the Christian life when we are reunited with Christ in His eternal home, providing we have lived according to His will.

The whole purpose of this latest anti-Gemma exercise is to attempt to frighten others into silence, submission and being afraid to question why so many healthy young people are dropping dead. Don't buy it. Fear is the most powerful weapon they have to control the masses. Once you lose it and pass all of your earthly concerns over to God, only then can you experience true freedom and real results.

When you see the attacks coming in on me, know it is because we are having a huge impact and are winning the information war. And once that is won, and the masses come out of their coma and start behaving like a moral people again, not robotic NPCs who put their trust in sleazy journalists and politicians, we can look forward to a new dawn where the criminals in the media and Leinster House are taken down for once and for all and they lose their grip over the Irish. When they are not attacking you, you are not doing your job. If we are to save this country from extinction, we have to be willing to reject any fear of what people might think about us and our popularity. Deep down, they know we are on the right side of history. It is their decision whether they want to join us.

Myths of the Magdalene Laundries

PREJUDICE, as the psychologist Gordon W. Allport stressed, is always an ‘unwarranted’ attitude. If someone experiences severe discomfort by eating certain foods, there is nothing prejudicial about refusing to eat any more of them. But there is something prejudicial about making sweeping generalisations about an entire category of food, or a community of people, when one’s experiences are limited. One contemporary example of prejudice is the popular perception of the nuns who ran Ireland’s Magdalene Laundries.

From the mid-eighteenth century to the late nineteenth century, the laundries housed “fallen” girls and women in Ireland and England. Though they did not initiate the facilities, most of the operations were carried out by the Sisters of Charity, the Sisters of Mercy, Good Shepherd Sisters, and the Sisters of Our Lady of Charity. The first “Magdalene Home” was established in England in 1758; Ireland followed in 1765 (the first asylum being a Protestant-run entity).

The popular perception of the laundries is entirely negative, owing in large part to fictionalised portrayals in the movies. The conventional wisdom has also been shaped by writers who have come to believe the worst about the Catholic Church, and by activists who have their own agenda. So strong is the prejudice that even when evidence to the contrary is presented, the bias continues.

There is a Facebook page dedicated to the laundries titled, “Victims of the Irish Holocaust Unite.” Irish politicians have spoken of “our own Holocaust,” and Irish journalists have referred to the “Irish gulag system.” But the fact is there was no holocaust, and there was no gulag. No one was murdered. No one was imprisoned, nor forced against her will to stay. There was no slave labour. Not a single woman was sexually abused by a nun. Not one. It’s all a lie.

How do we know it’s a lie? The evidence is fully documented in the McAleese Report on the Magdalene Laundries, formally known as the “Report of the Inter-Developmental Committee to establish the facts of State involvement with the Magdalene Laundries.” The Report, which was released February 5, 2013, was chaired by Senator Martin McAleese.

An analysis of the McAleese Report will show how utterly false the conventional view of the Magdalene Laundries is. First, however, we need to understand the genesis of the popular mythology. Nothing helped to put a monstrous face on the laundries more than the movie, “The Magdalene Sisters.”

The man behind the fraud

THE man behind “The Magdalene Sisters” is Peter Mullan. The Scottish writer, director and self-confessed Marxist said he got the idea for the movie by watching the 1998 TV film, “Sex in a Cold Climate.” That was a 50-minute documentary that described the lives of four women who lived and worked at the laundries. It made a big splash at the time, especially because it featured Phyllis Valentine, a woman who said she was interred in the laundries because she was deemed “too pretty” by the nuns.

If, of course, it were true that the nuns rounded up “pretty girls” for placement in the laundries, that would indeed be a big story. It would also suggest that other such cases must have surfaced by now (unless we are prepared to believe that Valentine was the only “pretty girl” encountered by the nuns). But they haven’t: only Valentine has made this claim. In her case, we know that at age 15 she was moved from the orphanage where she was raised to the laundry. Such a transfer was standard practice, whether the girls were homely or pretty. By the way, the laundry was literally next door to the orphanage. It should come as no surprise that not a single nun who worked at either the orphanage or the laundry was asked to verify the “pretty girl” tale.

To say Mullan hates Catholicism would be an understatement. His comment that “There is not much difference between the Catholic Church and the Taliban” is unqualified. Anyone capable of saying the Catholic Church is a terrorist organisation can be trusted to portray it that way. That was his goal, and he succeeded. He sought to throw as much mud as he could, and hope that at least some of it would stick. Mullan is so riddled with hate that he contends, “The worst thing about the Catholic Church is that it imprisons your soul, your mind and your d***.” This is the man whose depiction of the Church is taken at face value by movie reviewers.

Recently, a writer for the website Decent Films, raised some serious questions about the movie’s controversial elements. Steven D. Greydanus noted that “Mullan’s black-and-white (or rather black and more black) depiction of clergy and religious is absolute: Not a single character in a wimple or a Roman collar ever manifests even the slightest shred of kindness, compassion, human decency, or genuine spirituality; not one has the briefest instant of guilt, regret or inner conflict over the energetic, sometimes cheerfully brutal sadism and abuse that pervades the film.” It should be noted that other reviewers admitted that they actually liked the fact that not one redeeming character was presented in the film.

Perhaps the most maverick statement about the movie was made by Valerio Riva, a member of the administrative board of the arts council that runs the Venice Film Festival (the movie won the festival’s top award in 2002). He called Mullan’s work “an incorrect propaganda film.”

The 2002 movie is often described as a “fictionalised” account of what happened inside the laundries. The New York Times prefers to speak of “semifictionalised” stories that have been recounted on the screen. As we will see, the McAleese Report does not validate the cruelties portrayed in the film, but the problem is few have even heard of the Report, much less read it. It’s the movie’s thesis that is embedded in people’s minds, and it is one of unrelieved horror: sadistic nuns who punished young women with impunity, all in the name of Catholicism. Here is a sampling of how the movie was received.

- “Slave Labor in Irish Convents as Terrible as Prison.” This was the headline in the New York Times story of September 28, 2002. The movie review spoke about “the victims of a stringently moralistic brand of Irish Catholicism,” referring to the “religious labor camps” run by the nuns. “Some 30,000 women are thought to have passed through their gates.” Whom did they meet? “Most prison movies have a monster authority figure, and so does ‘The Magdalene Sisters.’” Specifically, the audience meets the “ogre” head nun, Sister Bridget, “a twisted diabolical autocrat.”
- Exactly two months later, the Times ran a story, “Irish Recall Sad Homes for ‘Fallen’ Women.” It said the movie depicted “the casual cruelty and commonplace despair in the homes,” explaining that a host of television documentaries “have revealed an array of abuse and cruelty by institutions run by the Catholic Church, often with the collusion of the state.”
- On August 3, 2003, the Times carried a piece by Mary Gordon, a long-time critic of Catholicism. After restating the themes of the two Times articles from the previous year, she opined that the “moral horrors” were not examples of mere “sadism”; rather, they reflected the even more pernicious “belief that they were intended for the victims’ own good.”
- The first of three articles by the Associated Press in 2003 referred to “the nuns’ deep-seated greed and corruption,” and to Sister Bridget’s “whip to keep the girls in line.”
- The second article said “some 30,000 women were virtually imprisoned,” and that they “sometimes suffer[ed] physical and sexual abuse.”
- The third article cited the 30,000 figure as well, and described the laundries as “forced-labor” establishments.
- An August 15, 2003 review in the Washington Post said the laundries were “veritable prison camps” that were run by “an unmovable monster,” Sister Bridget.
- A 2003 review in the U.K.’s Guardian picked up on the Nazi angle by speaking

Doctors' views on Laundries: We saw no evidence of abuse, only kindness from the nuns

Dr Michael Coughlan

"I had expected to find a very unhappy, deprived group who would have had significant medical and especially psychological complaints and special needs. My expected image of them all looking the same in drab uniform was quickly dissipated when I observed that each one presented dressed in colourful clothes. I was surprised to encounter a group of ladies who appeared to be quite happy.

I cannot recall any occasion that the patient complained in any manner about her treatment by the Nuns in the Home, neither recently nor in the distant past. Overall, my experience was a happy and gratifying one. The Residents were a delightful group of ladies, each with their own unique personality and they appeared to me to have a good and friendly relationship with the Mercy Sisters. My impression was that the Sisters were very caring towards the Residents."

Dr John Ryan

"There were a number of incidents of fractures but they were all from falls and usually out in the city, but none were suspicious in any way and I did not come across any evidence of unexplained bruising or scalding."

Dr Donal Kelly

"Many of these ladies were forgotten by their own or orphaned. They were poorly educated, some were mentally retarded. If the Sisters of Charity had not provided them with a home I don't know who would have cared for them. Never did I witness any evidence of physical or mental abuse."

Dr Harry Comber

"There was no evidence of any traumatic injuries inflicted during my time, nor did anyone ever show me evidence of any injury. I would be surprised if there was any mistreatment."

Dr. Malachy Coleman

"I always felt the ladies were well-fed and well-cared for. I saw no evidence of any traumatic injuries either historically, prior to my taking up the post, or for the time I cared for the ladies. My overall impression was of an institute run by caring nuns which contained a number of ladies who were unlikely to be able to care for themselves. While the ladies were very deferential to the nuns I did not at any stage get an impression of coercion or fear in the relationship between the ladies and the nuns. If anything I think the nuns did too much for the ladies and so decreased their capacity to care for themselves."

of "Dr. Mengele." It also described "the beatings, the breast-binding, the head-shaving, the forced fasting [and] the weekly mortification sessions, when the women were stripped and laughed at for their vanity."

- On August 1, 2003, the New York Daily News concluded that "the whole system was sadistic and indefensible," saying "the church" was deserving of all the scorn.
- On the same day, the San Francisco Chronicle pulled no punches, saying, "For some, the asylums were like a roach motel-girls checked in, but they never checked out, except 40 or 50 years later, in a pine box."
- The New York Post also chose August 1 to say, "You'll walk away amazed at the heartlessness of the people running the asylums and wondering how such a gruesome practice could have existed into the late 20th century."

Yes, it would be amazing if this heartlessness were tolerated as recently as the late 20th century. What is truly amazing is that so many movie reviewers would come to rock-solid conclusions, believing the worst about the nuns. Indeed, they acted as though the movie portrayed indisputable historical facts. What made it easier for people to believe the movie's narrative was the news stories coming out of Boston at this time: the priestly sexual abuse scandal, with Boston as the epicenter, erupted as front-page news in 2002.

Boston College professor James M. Smith is one of the few academics to research the laundries. He is hardly an apologist for the asylums, so what he says bears consideration. In his research, he never met a single woman who lived and worked in the laundries who described the kind of unconscionable conditions that Mullan describes. To be exact, sexual abuse manifestly did not occur. Moreover, none of the women Smith met said they were stripped naked and examined by nuns. Perhaps most important, he charges that Mullan never solicited or incorporated any comments made by the nuns who ran these facilities.

Those who sought refuge from the streets found a welcome hand in those who served in the "rescue movements." The nuns offered these women an alternative to exploitative conditions. In her research of seven institutions up to the year 1900, Maria Luddy found that the "majority of women who entered these refuges did so voluntarily...just over 66 percent" and that "entering a refuge was, for the majority of women, a matter of choice." The other facility available to them, the workhouse, was rejected because of the inferior conditions. Luddy also found that the decision to stay was made by the women, not the nuns.

Women at the Magdalene Laundries where no evidence of cruelty was uncovered

Not only is it a myth that the laundries were "imposed" on these women, it is equally fatuous to believe that the nuns forced them to stay.

Another myth, floated by Mullan and the media, is that the laundries were highly profitable institutions run by greedy nuns. Summarising Mullan's comments, a CNN story contended that "The laundries were quite profitable-helped by the almost slave-labor of the young workers."

The analysis of the financial records shows that the laundries "operated on a subsistence or close to break-even basis, rather than on a commercial or highly profitable basis and would have found it difficult to survive financially without other sources of income-donations, bequests and financial support from the State." Now if Mullan's account were accurate, we would have to believe that the donations and bequests were made either by evil persons who sought to keep these women locked in slave-labor camps, or by idiots. That the donors sought to help, not hurt, the women is closer to the truth.

Until the McAleese Report was published, it was widely believed that the nuns did whatever they wanted, free from state oversight. This view is also incorrect. The laundries were subject to the same Factories Acts that governed similar non-religious institutions; they were routinely inspected. The Report found that the laundries "were generally compliant with the requirements of the Factories Acts, and that when minor breaches occurred, they were remedied when brought to the attention of the operating Congregation."

The two most serious accusations made against the nuns who operated the Magdalene Laundries were a) they tortured the residents and b) they sexually abused the girls and women. Both are totally inaccurate. Not once in the McAleese Report is the word "torture" even mentioned-the charges are a complete fabrication. Exactly one woman claimed to have been sexually abused, but it was committed by a lay woman auxiliary who decided to stay in the institution for life. No nun ever sexually abused anyone.

One of the biggest myths about the laundries contends that the women had their heads shaven by mean-spirited nuns. Here is what the Report found: "None of the women told the Committee that their heads had been shaven, with one exception. The exception occurred where one woman had her head shaved because she had lice."

Besides the testimony of the women, the Report lists many comments made by physicians who worked in the laundries. What they had to say is among the most enlightening aspects of the Report: their experiences completely debunk the horror stories told by Mullan and his ilk. What follows is a selection of their remarks.

When Peter Mullan is asked if his portrayal of women being raped in slave-labor camps is an exaggeration, he replies, "You ask any woman who was there and they'll tell you the reality was much worse."

Well, the McAleese Report details the stories of 118 women who lived and worked in the Magdalene Laundries and they say it's all a lie. The doctors who worked there say it's all a lie.

The horror stories associated with the Magdalene Laundries cannot withstand scrutiny, but they will continue to have a life of their own. That's the way prejudice works. Unwarranted negative attitudes, especially when employed about a familiar whipping boy, are hard to shake. All we can do is pursue the truth and educate fair-minded people about what really happened. We certainly can't count on the likes of the New York Times or RTE to publish the truth.
