

Green Scam

It's about total control, not the planet

Page 6/7

Health

Vaccine regret is rife across Ireland

Page 8/9

Propaganda

One staged event after another

Page 11

LGBT++

'Gay Pride': depopulation by degeneracy

Page 12

THE IRISH LIGHT

Issue 22

The Uncensored Truth

irishlightpaper.com

FREE

Elections Are Selections. Voting Is Rigged

If it made any difference, it would be illegal

p4

Alien Invasion

NO other country in the world has been decimated by illegal immigration in the way that Ireland has.

The Jewish mafia that runs most global governments, controls international banking and is the key driver of mass immigration into first world Western nations has undoubtedly singled out Ireland for annihilation due in no small part to our centuries-long resistance to it as a result of our Catholic identity and heritage which they despise.

The recent 'selections' were a mass demoralisation ritual and a devastating blow to the morale of the Irish people. Scenes of jubilant Indians and Africans being put into positions of power in local councils following a rigged election were designed to patronise and gaslight natives as to who is now running the show.

It was gut-wrenching for many to watch. Parts of Dublin's north inner city have been reduced to African ghettos intoxicated with the stench of curry and squalor. Import the Third World. Create the Third World.

It's a catastrophe that we could never have envisaged to befall our beautiful country, even in our worst nightmares.

Those of us who have been ringing the alarm bells for years now find ourselves in the majority. We've been called every name under the sun for trying to warn the Irish people of the hell that is being created around them. It turns out we're all 'racist' now and if you haven't been called that yet, you're either a coward or a fool.

Multiculturalism - a Jewish concept designed to destroy the monocultural nations of Europe - has been a disaster in every single country it has been tried. Human beings are tribal. Despite all of the divisions that have been foisted upon the Irish people, mostly by the mainstream media and foreign NGOs, we are still a tribe. Our shared identity and sense of solidarity has been ripped to shreds by these evil entities in our midst. The importation of tens of thousands of illegals into Ireland aims to destabilise our country to its core.

(Cont'd overleaf)

The Irish Light: Ireland's Only Uncontrolled Media

Alien Invasion cont'd from p1

Unless the people act, the multicultural slums of north Dublin will be replicated in every single town, village and suburb of the country. That is already happening.

Why has this country been so strongly targeted and how can we get out of this mess so that we leave something resembling Ireland for the generations coming after us? Unlike their heroic and noble ancestors, the modern Irish have bent over backwards to facilitate the destroyers of Ireland - by loyally supporting RTE and other treasonous media, working for poisonous Big Pharma, Big Tech, Big Ag and Big Government and keeping their heads well below the parapet as their children's futures go up in flames.

They knowingly take part in a political process that is an absolute sham designed to create an illusion of 'democracy'. Elections are rigged. Voting is a joke. They are laughing at those who take part and believe they are going to bring about change by playing in their rigged system.

The illegal lockdowns during the scamdemic revealed in glaring technicolour just how far the Irish people had fallen. For nothing more than a sniffle, the vast majority willingly handed over their rights and freedom to the new police state run by MI5 agent Drew Harris.

No other people lined up so willingly to get their shot of poison. For what? They trusted a government who despises them. They went along to get along because money now rules their raison d'être not morality. They actually believe that by holding onto their purposeless jobs and outlandish mortgages, they are doing their children a favour.

Deep down, they know they are not. It's about keeping up appearances and holding onto the trappings of wealth, which are in most cases owned by the banks and always will be. This is not success. This is not prosperity. This is post-colonial insecurity and snobbery. They have internalised the commands of their

'All tyrannies rule through fraud and force but once the fraud is exposed they must rule exclusively through force'

George Orwell

oppressors and become obedient willing slaves. It's easy to point the finger at the Jews, the media, the political whores who have brought all of this about, but none of it would have been possible without the consent of the people and the fact that they have become an immoral people. Rather than being servants of God, they have become slaves to their passions and a system of perpetual debt, rampant materialism and sexual degeneracy. Until they fix the broken glass in their own greenhouse, they cannot throw stones. No nation can function in the absence of a moral people. Ireland is living proof of that.

Duped by dancing madmen

EARLY ON, there were many telltale signs that Covid was a fraud. We, unlike all other media, went into the biggest hospitals in the country at the very start of the phoney virus rollout in 2020 and saw nothing but empty corridors, empty wards and empty beds.

The hospitals had literally been emptied out and there was no sign of any deadly pandemic. We were threatened by security - mostly foreign - and nearly arrested for our efforts but it was worth the risk to show those who were wise enough to listen then that they were on the right track and there was a much bigger agenda at play.

The closure of beaches and other public spaces such as forest walks and parks - places where people go to improve their health - was another giveaway along with the laughable 2k/6ft rules.

The more bizarre the better: this was done to see how dumbed-down and conditioned people had become and whether they would go along with the madness. Sadly, many did. Even when the psychopaths in uniform - nurses, doctors and guards - started their cringe-inducing dancing, they still didn't get it. This illustrates the level of hypnosis many Irish people are under, fawning to be obedient to crooks who have stolen their wealth, health, happiness and left their children without a bean.

The Irish adopted cult behaviour wearing filthy nappies over their faces as those of us who were wise to the scam from the outset looked on in horror as if we had been transported onto the set of a dystopian movie. Except this was real life. How did these people we grew up with, had known for all of our lives, fall so easily for this ludicrous psychological operation?

Many said they had had a bad dose of the flu and believed it was this new killer pathogen. Even though every winter, their bodies undergo a similar detox, they still bought into it. They believed the horror stories coming out of the media every night about Covid deaths, which we now know were brought on by the government's death protocol killer drugs like Remdesivir, Midazolam and ventilators to euthanise unhealthy people with comorbidities and call it Covid. People fell for the lie because they believe the lying box in the corner of the living room which has dominated their lives for too long and wrecked their minds. Even the dreaded Fauci has admitted they were lying all along and made up the inane social distancing rules and masking. The common reaction among those who swallowed the State's lies is to lash out at politicians and media for duping them. Fair enough but they also need to look inside and ask why they allowed themselves to be made fools of by people who hate them.

The bigger the lie, the more people will believe it. The Irish people are being lied to once again by a shower of 'far right' charlatans claiming to be their saviours but are just as malevolent as the last lot. If they fail to see through these tricksters, they only have themselves to blame.

There is no political solution. The answer lies not in reforming the rotten system but in walking away from all State institutions and watching them collapse. That is the only way to end mass immigration, mass media, mass vaccination and mass indoctrination of the Irish people. Keep supporting your enemy and you cannot expect anything to change. While these words may be harsh, they are said out of concern for all Irish people in the hope that they will walk away from their abusers and see the light. Only then, united as Irish people, can we take back what is rightly ours.

THE IRISH LIGHT May/June 2024

Editor: Gemma O'Doherty - www.gemmaodoherty.com

Associate Editor John Waters - www.johnwaters.substack.com

Distributed independently to remain fiercely free from the State regime we seek to hold to account

Enquiries: www.irishlightpaper.com

STOP SWALLOWING MAINSTREAM MEDIA LIES

IT WASN'T A PANDEMIC
IT WAS AN IQ TEST

(S)Elections Change Nothing

Dictators are not in the business of allowing elections that see them dethroned

THE recent (s)elections in Ireland were designed to make the Irish people feel even angrier, more depressed and more helpless about the state of the country and how it has been brought to its knees by the political elite.

Ask yourselves, when was the last time an election improved your life? You can't remember because it's never happened, at least not in the recent decades since foreign vulture capitalists and woke NGOs took over Ireland and turned it into a morally bankrupt corporatocracy.

If elections were about making life easier for the ordinary man, they simply would not be allowed to happen.

Elections are run by the criminal mafia that call themselves government. Do you really think they are going to allow people to vote them out? While they may create an appearance of opposition - and indeed this time around there was no shortage of 'far right' goons doing the rounds - but remember, the regime controls both sides and always has their fake opposition waiting in the wings to continue the job of the sitting tyrants. That's why we should call them selections, not elections. The only reason elections are held is to give the illusion of democracy in case the masses rise up and take back what's theirs.

An editorial in the Canadian outlet Global Research summed up the voting hoax as follows: What is being staged is not an election. It's a con game, a scam, a grift, a hustle, a bunko, a swindle, a flimflam, a gaffe, and a bamboozle, and 'we the people' are nothing more than marks, suckers, stooges, mugs, rubes, or gulls.

We're being duped into believing that this mockery of a choice between candidates who are equally unfit for office actually translates into having some say in how the government is run.

To the contrary, this particular con game is part of a long-running, elaborate scam to keep the Deep State in power and leave the populace deluded, distracted and incapable of demanding accountability, transparency and decency from the government and its cohorts. Politics is entertainment for the masses.

It is a heavily-scripted, tightly choreographed, star-studded, ratings-driven, mass-marketed, costly exercise in how to sell a product to dazzled consumers who will choose image over substance almost every time.

Politics is a reality show, dominated by money and profit, imagery and spin, hype and personality, guaranteed to ensure that nothing in the way of real truth reaches the population. Elections are designed to keep them believing in the illusion of 'participation' and 'democracy'

Sneering as Ireland burns: Who could take these charlatans seriously?

Historian Daniel Boorstin referred to elections as a "pseudo-event": manufactured, contrived, confected and devoid of any intrinsic value save the value of being advertised. It is the end result of a culture that is moving away from substance toward sensationalism in an era of mass media.

Author Noam Chomsky observed: "It is important to bear in mind that political campaigns are designed by the same people who sell toothpaste and cars." In other words, we're being sold a carefully crafted product by a monied elite who are masters in the art of making the public believe that they need exactly what is being sold to them, whether it's the latest high-tech gadget, the hottest toy, or the most charismatic politician.

Politics is a reality show, dominated by money and profit, imagery and spin, hype and personality and guaranteed to ensure that nothing in the way of real truth reaches the populace.

After all, who cares about the evils that plague our nation when you can be sucked into an alternative reality so emotionally charged and entertaining as to make you forget that you live in a police state.

People who vote think they are choosing their public servants. In truth, however, they're engaging in the illusion of participation culminating in the reassurance ritual of voting. It's just another Blue Pill, a manufactured reality conjured up by the matrix in order to keep the populace compliant and convinced that their vote counts and that they still have some influence over the political process.

We have to get ourselves out of the mindset that says we need government and that everything would collapse without it. The exact opposite is the case. All of our problems as a nation stem from government: the chronic illness of our people through vaccines and pharma drugs, the illegal invasion of our country by immigrants, the absurd laws, the petty nonsensical bureaucracy, rules and red-tape we are put through every day that are designed to drive people to despair. This is all about controlling the populace and treating them like children. It's not about improving their lives, just enriching politicians and their handlers. Don't you think we would survive just fine without all of that? Walk away from the State and watch it collapse.

THE BIGGEST SCAM IN LIFE

PAYING TAXES ON MONEY YOU MAKE

TAXES ON MONEY YOU SPEND

TAXES ON THINGS YOU OWN

BROUGHT TO YOU BY THE JEWISH-CONTROLLED SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT WHICH IS BLEEDING YOU DRY

Wising Up To Green Scam

IT'S increasingly obvious that the public are no longer buying into the fraudulent green agenda and are rejecting it en masse. They have become too used to their creature comforts and have no intention of giving them up.

Many others have been badly burnt after falling for the electric car scam and realising they have bought a heap of expensive junk that can't get them from Dublin to Cork without countless recharging delays.

All that virtue-signalling for nothing. But at least they're now admitting they were conned. Global warming is the weapon of fear - along with non-existent pathogens - being used to bring down world economies, destroy agriculture, curtail our freedom of movement and private property rights and bring about a mass depopulation of the planet - helped along by vaccines.

The Jewish financial control grid - run by vulture tyrants like Blackrock - oversees the depraved political system whose blackmailed puppets lecture the public night and day about fictional climate change to usher in their despotic Agenda 2030 of total global control and depopulation.

This multi-trillion scam to take over the world began in 1968 with The Club of Rome's 'Limits to Growth' report - a blueprint for global tyranny and depopulation. The Club was founded by David Rockefeller along with Aurelio Peccei, a senior manager of the Fiat car company, owned by the powerful Italian Agnelli family. Agnelli became a founding member of David Rockefeller's Trilateral Commission in 1973. Its members shared a common goal: to bring about a dramatic reduction in world population. One described it as follows: "In searching for a new enemy to unite us, we came up with the idea that pollution, the threat of global warming, water shortages, famine and the like would fit the bill. All these dangers are caused by human intervention, and it is only through changed attitudes and behavior that they can be overcome."

The 'Limits to Growth' plan was

WHAT THEY SAY

WHAT THEY MEAN

1 NO POVERTY

WELFARE DEPENDENCE

2 ZERO HUNGER

GMO/CODEX

3 GOOD HEALTH AND WELL-BEING

FORCED VACCINATIONS

4 QUALITY EDUCATION

MARXIST INDOCTRINATION

5 GENDER EQUALITY

DESTROY FAMILY

6 CLEAN WATER AND SANITATION

WATER RATIONING

7 AFFORDABLE AND CLEAN ENERGY

SMART GRID SURVEILLANCE

8 DECENT WORK AND ECONOMIC GROWTH

BAN PRIVATE PROPERTY

9 INDUSTRY, INNOVATION AND INFRASTRUCTURE

SLAVE LABOUR

10 REDUCED INEQUALITIES

COMMUNISM

11 SUSTAINABLE CITIES AND COMMUNITIES

PRISON LIKE CITIES

12 RESPONSIBLE CONSUMPTION AND PRODUCTION

YOU WILL OWN NOTHING

13 CLIMATE ACTION

FUEL/CAR RATIONING

14 LIFE BELOW WATER

BAN ACCESS TO SEAS

15 LIFE ON LAND

CLOSE WILD PUBLIC SPACES

16 PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

IGNITE PROXY WARS

17 PARTNERSHIPS FOR THE GOALS

ONE WORLD GOVERNMENT

UN AGENDA 2030

NEW WORLD ORDER

the first of its kind to fuse together global temperature with economic variables like population growth, resource loss, and the under-defined category of "pollution". The real enemy then, is humanity itself."

The Club of Rome quickly set up branches across the Western world with members ranging from select ideologues in the political, business, and scientific community who all agreed that society's best form of governance was a scientific dictatorship. The Canadian branch of the organization was co-founded by the globalist oligarch Maurice Strong in 1970 alongside a nest of Fabians and Rhodes Scholars including Club of Rome devotee Pierre Trudeau, father of the tyrant Justin. Strong, who was one of Prince Philip's most powerful lackeys, also happened to co-found the World Economic Forum. In 1990, he let the cat out of the bag during an interview when he said:

This multi-trillion scam to take over the world began in 1968 with The Club of Rome's 'Limits to Growth' report - a blueprint for global tyranny and depopulation

"What if a small group of world leaders were to conclude that the principal risk to the Earth comes from the actions of the rich countries? And if the world is to survive, those rich countries would have to sign an agreement reducing their impact on the environment. Will they do it? The group's conclusion is 'no'. The rich countries won't do it. They won't change. So, in order to save the planet, the group decides: Isn't the only hope for the planet that the industrialized civilizations collapse? Isn't it our responsibility to bring that about?"

And thus the dystopian 'Sustainable Development' goals came into being. Fortunately, resistance is growing. Thousands of scientists have now declared climate change a massive fraud. They say that the Earth's climate has varied as long as the planet has existed, with natural cold and warm phases. The Little Ice Age ended as recently as 1850.

Therefore, it is no surprise that we may now be experiencing a period of relative warming. The world has warmed significantly less than predicted by IPCC (Intergovernmental Panel On Climate Change) models. Climate models have many shortcomings and are not remotely plausible as global policy tools. They blow up the effect of greenhouse gases such as CO2. In addition, they ignore the fact that enriching the atmosphere with CO2 is beneficial. CO2 is not a pollutant. It is essential to all life on Earth. Photosynthesis is a blessing. More CO2 is beneficial for nature, greening the Earth: additional CO2 in the air has promoted growth in global plant biomass. It is also good for agriculture, increasing the yields of crops worldwide. This huge deception is being shattered and its true goal of depopulation and totalitarian control finally revealed for all to see.

They Feed Off Your Fear

FAILED PREDICTION TIMELINE

- 1966 Oil gone in ten years
- 1967 Dire famine by 1975
- 1968 Overpopulation will destroy the world
- 1969 New York and Washington will disappear by 2000
- 1970 All oceans and fish will be dead within a decade
- 1971 America subject to water and food rationing by 1980
- 1972 Space satellites show new Ice Age coming fast
- 1974 Ozone Depletion 'a great peril to life'
- 1974 Scientific consensus: Planet cooling, famines imminent
- 1976 Oil production will peak by early 1990s
- 1978 No end in sight to 30-year cooling trend
- 1978 Acid rain will kill all lake life
- 1980 Global temperatures to rise 3-4 degrees between 2010-2020
- 1988 Maldives completely flooded by 2018
- 1988 Rising seas to obliterate nations by 2000
- 1989 Everything will disappear in cloud of steam by 1989
- 1992 Up to 60% of Florida population may have to be relocated
- 1995 80% of all species will be extinct in 25 years
- 2000 Children won't know what snow is
- 2002 Famine can only be avoided if we give up meat
- 2002 Britain plunged into Siberian climate by 2020
- 2005 Manhattan under water by 2015
- 2007 Arctic will be ice-free by 2018
- 2008 NASA Scientist: 'We're toast'
- 2009 50 days to save the planet
- 2014 Climate change will kill your pets by 2023
- 2018 All humanity wiped out in five years unless we stop using fossil fuels

All of the above appeared as headlines/stories in the mainstream media.
That's just another reason to give up their junk 'journalism.'

Source: www.wattsupwiththat.com

Vaccine Regret Is Rife

A large cohort of Irish people now admit taking the vaccine was the worst decision they ever made

IT'S probably fair to say that there isn't a person in Ireland who would honestly admit they are glad they took the Covid vaccine. For most, it is a decision which weighs heavily upon them, knowing they have been duped by bought-and-paid-for media and politicians. Many of them haven't felt right since they took the injection and dread to think what its long-term effects might be.

Public anger towards the establishment who pushed it upon them is reaching boiling point. Those of us who spent every day of the scandemic trying to warn people not to take it are now supported by the majority of Irish people. This is a tremendous turnaround. Many just wish they had listened to us at the time instead of joining the chorus of pharma-funded shysters screaming inane names at us like 'anti-vax'.

The disastrous fallout of the Covid vaccine has led many people to question all vaccines and understand they are the cause of a lot of the chronic illness we see all around us and responsible for the autism epidemic in children. One would have to hope that only the most naive of people would consider any form of vaccination now and that is a profound blessing that has come out of the Covid nightmare.

Even the mainstream media now are acknowledging that the dramatic rise in excess sudden deaths around the world is due to the vaccine. This is not because they have suddenly become honest but because they are haemorrhaging circulation and need to try to dredge back some credibility. Politicians are apologising and offering injury schemes: too little too late for those who have been paralysed and braindamaged. Vehicles like the Ambulift (pictured right) are now regular features at airports transporting the large numbers of wheelchair-bound passengers to flights. One of the most disturbing aspects of all of this has been the demonisation of anyone who exposed vaccine harm when it was clear since the first series of jabs were rolled out, serious injuries were being inflicted upon the population. They somehow managed to demonise coughs, sniffles and having no symptoms at all but normalised strokes, blood clots and 'died suddenly'. You know how to pay them back.

By rejecting wholesale RTE and all mainstream journalism (most 'alternative' media too as they are also controlled) and abandoning the HSE 'hell service' which is there to keep you ill, not make you better.

There's no money in that. Next time around, don't be so trusting! Don't outsource your health to doctors who are only interested in keeping you dependent on them. Take control back!

THEY SOMEHOW MANAGED TO DEMONISE COUGHS, SNIFFLES AND HAVING NO SYMPTOMS AT ALL... BUT NORMALISED STROKES, BLOOD CLOTS, HEART ATTACKS AND 'DIED SUDDENLY'

Plague of vaccine-related heart attacks in young healthy people

THE putrid establishment will go to any length to try to cover up the pandemic of sudden deaths and heart attacks caused by the Covid vaccine including unlawfully arresting the editor of this newspaper because she refuses to be silenced on the matter.

All this has done is bring more people to The Irish Light where they know they will find nothing but the unvarnished truth.

The regime knows it cannot contain the scandal for much longer as too many people are now aware of the plague of unexpected deaths around them and see healthy young people being rushed to hospital with heart attacks and other mysterious conditions. In a small country like Ireland, where nothing can stay hidden for long, an epic cover-up of this nature simply cannot remain concealed.

Anecdotaly, ambulance drivers are overwhelmed by the numbers of young patients they're seeing in the back of their cabs. Insurance companies are struggling to cope with rising mortality rates which show increases of more than 20% in young adult deaths since the rollout. Auditors at the largest insurance companies in the world are alarmed that teenagers, young workers and healthy people in the prime of life are dying at a record pace, causing a “monumental outflow” of death claims that is shaking the industry and causing some to take a fresh look at the problem.

A recent US poll found that 24% of Americans believe someone they know died from vaccine side effects.

Japan's most senior medical oncologist Dr Masanori Fukushima has slammed the injection claiming it is causing “turbo cancers,” a kind previously unseen by doctors that progress extremely quickly and are typically in stage four by the time they are diagnosed.

He shared the story of a 28-year-old man who was found dead by his wife when she tried to wake him in the morning, five days after he received his second Pfizer shot. The doctor who did the autopsy said that when he tried to remove the heart, it was soft and had disintegrated.

“It's essentially murder,” Dr Fukushima said.

“The media have not reported the injuries. Those who question the safety of the shots – just as with the flu vaccines – have been characterized as anti-science heretics. Those who shut them down are not in any way scientific and are engaged in hysterical cult behaviour.”

If you want to help spread the uncensored truth

...please order your copies of the Irish Light and distribute in your area so we can help to waken up the Irish people to the very real threats that they face and why we must fight to defend our freedom of speech, privacy and property rights

Order today at www.irishlightpaper.com

Jews Fund Both Sides In Conflicts

EVER since they duped the world with their Holocaust lie, the Jews have been playing the victim and laundering reparation money from the West to fund their futile wars, using the US and UK as their proxy warriors.

Communism is a Jewish invention and its first rule of thumb is to take control of all political opposition, as Lenin espoused. In order to justify the police state that is essential for Communism (ie total State control) to work, they need to create a viable enemy. So it came as no surprise to learn that the recent ‘anti-semitic’ protests for Palestine have been funded by Jewish backers. In order to control both sides, you have to fund both sides. College campuses are a perfect breeding ground for Woke-indoctrinated teenagers to rage against Zionism and Israhell. Billionaire Jewish donors including George Soros and David Rockefeller are pumping money into these charades. You only need to take one look at the breed of radical student involved to see it is the pink-haired tattooed brigade yet again who are fronting them: ie demented leftists groups created by the Jews to generate their order out of chaos.

In Trinity College Dublin, a transvestite led the so-called rage against the Israeli machine. Who invented transgenderism? The Jews no less to warp the minds of the young and lead the way for transhumanism whereby the world is effectively run by AI and not human creativity and individuality.

The first transgender surgery was performed in 1931 in Weimar Germany - a hotbed of Jewish influence which promoted degeneracy and the debasement of Christian values and morality. It was pioneered by the gay ‘sexologist’ pervert Magnus Hirschfeld whose deviant ‘institute’ was shut down.

According to the Talmud, there are 8 different genders and this is what Irish children are being taught in schools today where you see homosexual rainbow flags outside. So until you understand how powerful Jewish lobbies throughout history infiltrate both sides and create unnecessary societal divisions, you cannot understand how the world works today.

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has publicly admitted that his government has funded their ‘sworn enemies’ Hamas, giving millions of dollars in mafia-style payments to carry out false flag attacks in Israel, which are nothing more than theatre. Be it Ukrainian neo-Nazis, Russian nationalists or hard-core leftists, you will find Jewish money behind them. It’s a dialectic based on problem, reaction, solution. They create the problem and usher in the solution in the form of proxy wars, fake terrorism and non-existent viruses.

Islam has been brought to Ireland by Jewish NGOs to create turmoil among indigenous Catholics.

Shekels are behind every single movement of aliens into Western countries. So where you see the Palestinian flag, understand that you might as well be looking at the Israeli flag. Much of what is coming out of Palestine now is staged. The recent stunt by the Irish regime to ‘recognise’ Palestine was a classic case in points. The lights are not switched on in government buildings now without Israeli permission. And any donation intended for Palestine goes straight into Israeli coffers. They have controlled all financial channels into Gaza for decades. That’s the Communist (Jewish) way.

EXPOSED: GROUPS ORGANIZING COLLEGE ANTI-ISRAEL PROTESTS FUNDED BY SOROS-TIED ENTITIES

It's One Staged Event After The Next

THE streets of Ireland have been turned into an open-air theatre this summer as Drew Harris and his MI5 agents carry out one staged event after another to justify more police powers and further restrictions on people's rights and freedoms. If it isn't the Burkes running around after puppeticians and being dragged out of courtrooms, it's a tubby Garda being attacked by some 'far right' actor in some blatantly choreographed drama or some politician's house being targeted by operatives.

The contrived 'bomb threats' against Helen McEntee are a desperate attempt by the State to generate public sympathy for the bimbo dictator minister who wants to steal your free speech and has torn up the Constitution.

Of course, as a crisis actress, she has no real say in anything that goes on in the Department of Injustice and is nothing more than a dazed rabbit blinded by the headlights. She plays her role as the damsel in distress waiting to be attacked by the next 'extremist' lurking around the corner who is more than likely an undercover garda or some other asset playing their role.

More often than not, these pantomime stunts backfire. In a recent one, McEntee was supposed to be hiding in her bunker after a series of 'bomb threats' to her home, but was seen out partying with her pals. That's the problem with the Irish regime - they are simply too dumb to choreograph staged events that actually have the desired effect. To describe such episodes as embarrassing is an understatement. That some people still fall for them is tragic. Since the 'hubbabaluvva' antics of the Parnell bloodless massacre in November 2023, it's been a relentless stream of fakery designed to keep Paddy in a state of perpetual fear, anger, demoralisation and helplessness. There's the 'Migrants On Tour' show which involves a busload of illegals being driven into random towns. Notorious dog-abuser Philip Dwyer - another agent of the state with a lot of 'baggage' - turns up right on cue to rally any awkward locals who might be thinking about objecting, gets them all on camera. Data processed. Job done. Migrants leave town.

You might have noticed how all of these videos go 'viral' - that's because they're fake boosted on Elon's fake Twitter by Mossad bot factories in the Negev desert. It's not that Irish people with half decent IQs are actually watching them or taking these people seriously.

There are entire bot operations given over to promoting controlled opposition all day long to give the illusion that they are popular. If you're participating in or engaging with any of this charade, then you're bending the knee to the government's mind control psychological programme.

The gangster regime that runs the State sees propaganda as a perfectly legitimate means of keeping the masses under their control. Ireland is now run by a series of intelligence agencies out of the US, Israel and the UK - mainly the CIA, Mossad and MI5. In 2013, Barack Obama repealed the 1948 Smith-Mundt Act which permitted propaganda to be used against the American people. So the US government can 'legally' propagandise its people and that extends to all of its foreign colonies including Ireland. RTE and other media have long since been captured by these intelligence agencies who brought in outsiders with dubious backgrounds to socially engineer the Irish people and turn them against themselves and their culture, while making them hate their past.

Since the 90s, the Irish have been fed a diet of non-stop anti-Catholic trash to amputate them from their faith and heritage, which they are realising now is what gives their lives meaning and what made Ireland such a decent country, until these diabolical entities took over the organs of power and media. Now that a handful of 'far right' clowns have been (s)elected in the recent rigged elections, we can expect a never-ending stream of psychological operations involving them, as the regime tries to combat the growing sentiment within the Irish people that the State and government is the enemy and the only things wrong with Ireland.

The joke candidates they ran in the selections like Gavin Pepper and Malachi Steenson are designed to make the 'far right' look so ridiculous and embarrassing, people would be inclined to go back to the mainstream parties when seeking political options.

The reality is there is no political solution and if you haven't worked that out by now, you soon will. The State in Ireland is so profoundly corrupt now from top to bottom, it is completely futile participating in any political endeavours or organisation as they have all been infiltrated and are destined to fail.

When Irish people start to understand they have been subjected to decades of social engineering at the hands of the media and government, then they will be released from that spell and can start to recover from the trauma they have endured.

The only way out of this is to switch off all mainstream media and engage in very limited doses of social media which is completely controlled and highly toxic, keeping you swept up in crazy fear ops and demoralisation rituals.

Staged events have been used by governments to bring in tighter controls for decades. Much of what we witnessed during the Troubles - the senseless violence and bombings - were choreographed by Drew Harris's 'former' colleagues to justify the ongoing presence of the English Crown in Northern Ireland. Problem, reaction, solution. Rioting in housing estates was typically initiated and fuelled by undercover police to stir up conflict between rival factions so they could justify bringing tanks onto the streets and constant surveillance of citizens. There was no shortage of bombs placed by the security forces to kill, maim and bring about reprisals to create more violence and greater police/military presence.

Surveillance, false flags, counterintelligence, data processing and psychological operations have been the bread and butter of Drew Harris for his entire career since his time in the RUC and PSNI. That's why he was brought down south by the external forces that run Ireland. His role is purely to establish full control over the population and make them terrified of his force of thugs. But despite his long track record, many of the stunts he's been involved in have been exposed as intelligence operations to justify more police state. The staged Parnell riots of November 2023 are a classic example. Whenever the media creates a narrative about an 'attack' on a politician or covers some violent 'far right' protest, know that you are watching a choreographed event designed to suck your attention, fool you and take away more of your freedom and rights.

Understanding that can be very liberating. Don't fall for it. Then they will lose their power over you.

Pride Is The Deadliest Sin

The show of vulgarity that is Pride Month is turning people against homosexuals. Many now despise the sight of the paedophile rainbow flag on public buildings and schools.

THE gay cult’s in-your-face aggression in pushing their lifestyle on the rest of society has backfired. The fear of speaking out against LBGTBP bullies is waning especially as most people now see that it is about nothing other than obedience to a depraved group who prey on innocent children.

Many businesses, schools and shops refused to fly the rainbow flag this month and most ‘Pride’ events were poorly attended.

There were some exceptions of course. The nauseating sight of the flag of pederasty plastered all over Dublin Airport (pictured right) was enough to make some passengers want to drive straight through and abandon their holiday plans. Whenever you see a corporation being forced to bend the knee to this sinister agenda, it’s a sure sign that they are up to their neck in debt and are being ordered to do it by their Jewish paymasters. The Dublin Airport Authority currently owes €1.6billion to the banks. Any business draped in LBGTBP propaganda is likely beholden to the moneylenders. You also know it is promoting the depopulation, transhumanist agenda which is at the heart of the push for so-called gay rights.

Thankfully, “Pride Month” is nearly over and over the coming years, will become extinct. Many no longer buy the unfounded neo-Marxist claim that homosexual and transgender individuals are members of oppressed victim classes and must be elevated to prominence. Meanwhile, the rest of society – including schoolchildren - must bend the knee in homage to those who in reality are troubled souls.

Here’s an extremely unpopular truth published recently in LifeSite News: There are more people today living as “ex-gays” than those leading homosexual lives. And here’s another: There are more people who experience “sex-change regret,” desperately seeking to find healthcare professionals willing to help them “revert” to their God-given sexual body functions, than there are those seeking so-called “gender-affirming” care.

We must call attention to this inconvenient truth that challenges both the popularly accepted media narrative and the political power amassed by those exploiting homosexuality to squash the immutable truth about the complementarity of the sexes in order to reshape the western world, bleeding dry marriage, man, woman, and the family of all meaning.

One heterosexual commentator summed up the mood of many who have simply had enough. Since it’s day one of Pride Month, let me restate:

I don’t owe the LBGT community anything.
I don’t owe GAY PEOPLE anything.
I don’t owe LESBIANS anything.
I don’t owe TRANS PEOPLE anything for mutilating their bodies.

And I ESPECIALLY don’t owe anything to the closet pedophiles lurking within the LBGT community waiting to rape our children!

Because what have any of you ever done for me or for humanity?

Nothing.
Nothing but whine and demand and complain.

You demand that we call you by your pronouns and your new names.

You demand that we celebrate your openness when we would really rather you keep it to yourselves.

You parade your naked maleness around in front of vulnerable women and children.

You try to confuse young kids about what gender they are.

You secretly teach our kids how to have deviant sex.

You convince children to mutilate their bodies in the name of your satanic ideology.

And you try to get us cancelled or fired if we complain about it!

Does the world owe you something for that?
I think not.

Reclaiming The Rainbow

Be honest. All parents want to become grandparents, deep down at least, to continue their family tree and legacy.

AND as much as many parents today go along with the lie when their children ‘come out’ as gay, most of them are devastated at the news and spend the rest of their lives in a cycle of heartache watching their children go from one drama to the next and never finding real happiness because they are going against nature and God.

No nation can survive without the nuclear family. And so the backlash has begun, finally and in earnest.

Here in Ireland, the narcissistic spectacle of ‘Pride’ has been a damp squib and ignored by most sentient people. Their desperate attempts to infiltrate Catholic churches - all part of the Jewish agenda to destroy from within - has also seen a backlash.

St Andrew’s Church on Westland Row in Dublin cancelled a ‘gay men’s choir’ concert which had for some reason been scheduled to take place in the church this June. A statement issued by the clerical staff said it was not compatible with the mission of the Catholic Church.

Meanwhile, parents in Canada have been taking a strong stance to protect their children against the nefarious gay elements trying to distort their childrens’ innocence from a very early age.

Across the country, many have kept their children at home for the entire month of June as a protest against Pride indoctrination and filth on their streets such as the scenes below.

Parents across Ontario are participating in the National “Pride” Flag Walk-Out Day and sending a strong message to those schools who raise the ‘pride’ flag. The indoctrination surrounding the transgender/homosexual ‘pride’ flags in our schools is insidious, organisers say, and ‘this is what they want to put in front of your kids and have them celebrate, with a cult-like devotion!’

The ‘rainbow of perversion’ covers an ever-growing list of sexual behaviours and ideologies that run contrary to God’s plan for traditional marriage and the family, and it’s always getting worse.

Meanwhile, a town in Alberta is pushing back against the LGBT agenda by petitioning to remove LGBT rainbow flags and crosswalks. This month, residents of

Barrhead, Alberta, launched a petition to remove all LGBT rainbow crosswalks and ‘Pride’ flags from municipal property, similar to a motion passed in the nearby town of Westlock earlier this year.

After years of in-your-face perversion and grooming, it seems corporations too have finally had enough of Pride month. US store Target announced that it would be limiting its LGBT-themed merchandise to only a handful of its almost 2,000 stores based on “historical sales performance.”

In other words, the conservative boycotts of Target – which kicked off in response to the store’s decision to sell a wide range of LGBT merchandise targeted at children – paid off. Target’s decision to sell products designed for transgender people caused outrage among consumers.

In Tennessee, a law has been passed banning Pride Flags from classrooms. American parents have been repulsed by some of the sordid scenes taking place at Pride marches this year which are more depraved than usual and have seen a lot of targeting of small children by homosexual men in leather garb, masks and collars promoting their sick habits in full public view.

Throughout June, which the Catholic Church dedicates to the Sacred Heart, thousands of Catholics have gathered across the world for Rosary rallies in reparation for blasphemous pro-LGBT marches. Tradition, Family, Property (TFP), a traditional Catholic activist movement, is organizing Rosary rallies across the United States.

“For centuries, the Catholic Church has consecrated the month of June to the Sacred Heart of Jesus,” said TFP rally coordinator José Ferraz. However, LGBT activists have now hijacked the month and declared it “pride month,” celebrating sin and depravity.

In Mexico, the tearing down of rainbow banners comes on the heels of the election of their new woke, pro-LGBTQ+ president Claudia Sheinbaum - needless to say a Jew.

In 2022, she celebrated the legalization of homosexual ‘marriage’ in certain Mexican states, and last year, on the feast of Our Lady of Guadalupe, she posted a photo of herself to X stating, “My dream is to continue to fight for sexually diverse people.”

Her election is already causing a revolt in the public. In recent weeks, workers in Mexico City took matters into their own hands, tearing rainbow banners hanging from government buildings into pieces.

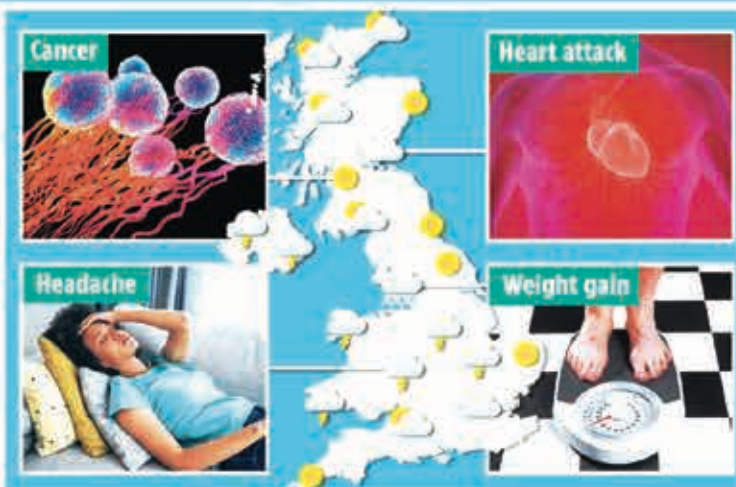

The counter revolution is in full flight.

Logos is rising. It’s true that pride always comes before a fall.

HEALTH

Climate change could cause more people to die from stroke, study says

Health > News Health

HEALTH FORECAST How the weather is HARMING your health – from heart attacks to stroke and gout

Matt Barbour

Published: 10:37, 30 Jan 2022 | Updated: 10:37, 30 Jan 2022

Urgent warning as 300,000 people living with deadly heart condition – symptoms

News > Health News

FABULOUS NEWS Being sarcastic puts you at greater risk of a heart attack, docs warn

THINGS THAT HEART IN

Even mild flu tied to double risk of heart attack, stroke in older patients

What is Eye Stroke Caused By Extreme Heat?
Can It Lead To Loss Of Vision?

The intense heat has sparked health concerns, including that of direct exposure to the sun's rays, which increases the risk of an eye stroke.

Getting angry regularly increases risk of having heart disease, stroke — Experts

By Sara Oprea

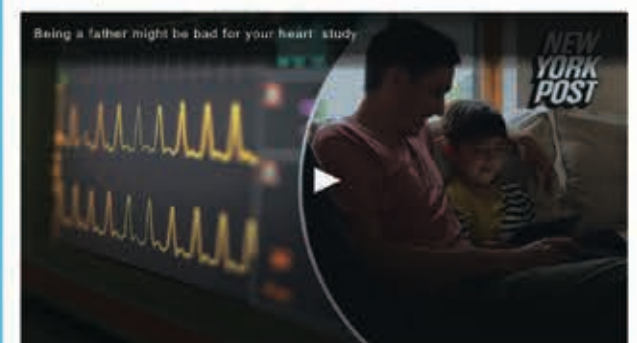

Health

GREEN FINGERS Urgent warning to gardeners as soil 'increases risk of killer heart disease'

Fatherhood might be bad for your heart: study

By Alexandra Klausner

Published May 20, 2024, 1:39 p.m. ET

Could your bedtime be increasing your risk of heart disease?

HEART DISEASE | HEALTH | Tuesday 9 November 2021, 7:18pm

Rise in heart disease may be explained by extreme weather conditions: Study

THEY'RE LAUGHING

Five reasons you're more likely to have a heart attack in winter

Why are professional footballers having heart attacks?

Experts call for a less taxing schedule to ease the pressure off players.

JOHN MAC GHLIONN

Are your children at a higher risk of stroke from increased screen time?

There has been a surge in the use of screen time, more so during the pandemic. This has made the younger generation more prone to stroke attacks. So, how can you protect your children? Here's all you need to know!

Mummies study finds heart disease plagued the ancients, too

Cathal Dennehy: Sport has many ways to break your heart and body

Sport is, for the most part, beneficial to health, but that's not really the case at its truly elite end

Stroke Risk is Increasing Mainly in Younger People, Here's Why

Cannabis use linked to increase in heart attack and stroke risk

Most frequent use of cannabis was associated with higher odds of adverse cardiovascular outcomes, finds new study in Journal of the American Heart Association

TV doctor says 'devastating' energy price hike may cause heart attacks and even strokes

Dr Amir appeared on ITV's Lorraine this morning to discuss the health issues the energy price hike could cause, and offered his advice and support to TV viewers who might be struggling

By Jasmine Allday TV Reporter

19:05, 1 FEB 2022

Devoted football fans experience 'dangerous' levels of stress

Snow shoveling can be hazardous to your heart

Why are heart attacks becoming common in 'seemingly' fit people?

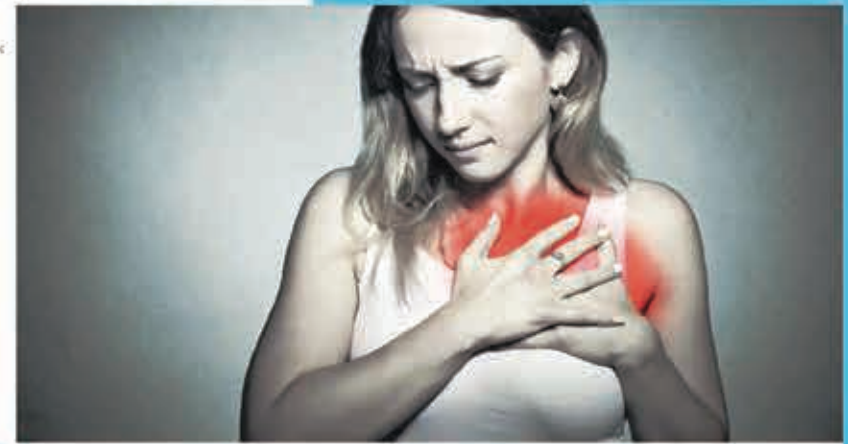

Apprentice Press / Feb 4, 2022, 12:01 PM

More and more people are now experiencing heart attacks at a younger age. Here's why and how to protect yourself.

Health > Women's Health

SPOT THE SIGNS The little known heart attack that strikes 'fit and healthy' women as young as 22

Fish Oil Supplements May Raise Your Risk of Heart Disease and Stroke If You're Healthy

Heart attack: The drink that could trigger a 'sudden' cardiac arrest - 'catastrophic'

CAUSE ATTACKS 2024

AT YOU

Irish know the way home

SOMETIMES it's not enough for a man to die. A mediocre man, even a good one, is soon forgotten. But if he was a great man and he had a profound influence for good, his enemies will use every opportunity to desecrate his grave and distort his legacy long after he is gone.

Fr Denis Fahey was such a great man. Although he died in 1954, his works have become more significant with each passing year. As the world plunges further and further into a satanic darkness, and the saving light of the infallible magisterium of the Church is obscured by the soft apostasy of so many of today's unworthy shepherds, reasonable people are looking for answers that explain a debacle of near universal proportions.

Fr Fahey provides those answers - solid Catholic ones that faithfully echo the social teachings of the Church through the ages. Because of his faithfulness, Modernists and other heretics, as well as the doubtful and weak in faith, continue to question, discredit, and attack this holy priest. His critics call him an anti-Semite because he dared to assert that the Jews and the Masons are opposed to the Catholic Church. Although he died fifty years ago, his influence is, indeed, very current.

Fr Fahey was born in Golden, Co Tipperary in 1883. At 17, he entered the Holy Ghost Fathers at Grignon-Orly, located near Paris in France. He made his profession in 1907. Further educated at the Gregorian University in Rome, he was ordained in 1910, taking his Ph.D. in Philosophy from the Academy of St. Thomas Aquinas. He returned to Ireland and was appointed Director of Scholastics and Professor of Philosophy at the Irish Province of the Holy Ghost Congregation in Dublin. He died in 1954 and is buried in Kimmage. A prolific writer, he authored several books that focused extensively on the defense of and richer cultivation of the Kingship of Christ in his Catholic homeland. During his studies in Rome, Fr Fahey learned how the Mystical Body of Christ transformed the pagan society of the Roman Empire and prepared it for the "upward movement of recognition for the programme of Our Lord Jesus Christ, Priest and King." He also learned that the revolutions of the modern world, in the words of Pope Leo XIII, "were but one phase of the development of a pre-arranged plan, which is being carried out over an ever-widening area to multiply the ruins of which we have previously spoken."

Fr Fahey came to understand "that all the revolutions were bringing about the elimination of the rule of Christ the King in view of ultimately eliminating the Mass and the supernatural life of Christ, the Supreme High Priest."

He spent most of his writing and teaching career working out the theoretical and practical implications of these two great notions. These two major streams of streams of thought - the recognition of the Kingship of Christ and the unmasking of the forces opposed to His Kingdom. In particular, he attempted to expound and build upon the social teachings of the modern popes: Pius IX, Leo XIII, St. Pius X and Pius XI. He recognised above all else that the Kingship of Christ is absolutely necessary for earthly happiness as well as the salvation of every human being. The Reign of Christ the King is the only source of hope for the world, both materially and spiritually. It is the only means for building and preserving civilization.

Second, any person, group, organization, or social movement that opposes Christ's Reign is a witting or unwitting tool of demonic powers. Needless to say, in a world that is swimming in heresy, Naturalism, Modernism, Marxism, Socialism, and every other imaginable error, such a teaching causes a great deal of discomfort. Naturalism is defined as the attitude of mind which denies the reality of the Divine Life of Grace and of our Fall therefrom by Original Sin. It rejects our consequent liability to revolt against the order of the Divine Life, when this Life has been restored to us by our Membership of [in] Christ, and maintains that all social life should be organized on the basis of that denial.

Any system of thought or organization that rejects the divine plan and tries to substitute anything other than His plan would be called naturalistic. It is based on the denial of divine revelation. Groups that hold this view are Organized Naturalists. Simply, they are groups of men who work to establish an order that leaves out the essential element - God and Naturalism means complete sterility in The devil is considered the first naturalist. He rejected the divine plan for salvation and substituted his own with his defiant cry, "I will not serve!" Satan's aim has never changed. He wants to subvert the divine plan and recruit as many men as possible into his disordered cadre - for his malicious delight and their eternal damnation. Fr Fahey singled out the three main forces of organized Naturalism in today's world. One is invisible; the other two are visible. "The invisible host is that of Satan and the other fallen angels, while the visible forces are those of the Jewish Nation and Freemasonry. The Jewish Nation is not only a visible organization, but its naturalistic or anti-supernatural character is openly proclaimed, by its refusal to accept the Supernatural Messias and by its looking forward to a naturalistic messianic era.

It does not take too much effort to uncover the obvious flaw of Freemasonry - the reason it merits special attention by Fr Fahey (pictured below centre). By Masonry's open refusal to recognize the primacy of the Catholic Faith and by its secret rituals in which initiates take formal vows to oppose the papacy, Masonry declares itself the organized enemy of the Kingship of Christ. Leaving aside the secret anti-Catholic oaths and the satanism involved in the highest levels of Masonry, "indifferentism" is the official creed of the Freemasons - one religion is as good as another - a man may believe whatever he wants as long as he is a "good" man. Ultimately, Masonry replaces God with the pantheistic deification of man. Once a conspiratorial organization indulges its members in this kind of Luciferian sin, an infinite variety of errors, perversions, and revolutions have the potential to germinate. As history demonstrates, these evil fruits have been propagated by Masonic societies ever since their formal organization in 1717. Most of us have been trained to accept the following notions as self-evidently true and/or worthy goods: "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity," "Freedom of Religion," the "Separation of Church and State," that all political power comes from the people, that usury is a perfectly legitimate means of getting rich, and that the Jews are the most persecuted people in history, always the victim in any conflict, while organized Jewry never works to undermine the gospel of Jesus Christ.

The vast majority of Catholics have no idea that these notions are evil, fallacious and, therefore, anti-Catholic. Nor are they remotely aware that these subversive errors have been calculatedly foisted on them by those two above-mentioned groups of organized naturalists and their willing agents and sympathisers.

The first time they encounter Fr Fahey's challenge of these closely held misconceptions, many people dismiss him as rabidly radical or, at best, seriously misguided. Those who are willing to take the time and make the effort to research carefully the Church's traditional teachings on these matters eventually come to accept the veracity of Fr Fahey's exposition.

"Liberty, Equality, Fraternity" was the cry of the Freemasons who were responsible for the French Revolution and the subsequent bloodbath called "The Terror." Liberty is defined as license. True equality as children of God was deformed and became egalitarianism (the erasing of all distinctions between individuals).

Fraternity was substituted for the virtue of charity in members of the Mystical Body of Christ. As we have already noted, "Freedom of Religion," (also known as "indifferentism") is a main tenet of the Masons - one of the errors they promote openly. "Separation of Church and State" is one of the most diabolic of the maxims of Freemasonry, one that is continually conjured forth by the secularists in their effort to eliminate the Church's God-given influence over the laws and actions of civil government. The belief, promulgated by the revolutionary protagonist Jean Jacques Rousseau, that political power arises from the people, rather than descending to human authority from God, was the inversion of true order.

Usury, defined as the charging of excessive interest on loans, particularly loans to individuals and families for purchasing the necessities of life, forms the basis of the modern national economy. Money is sought for money's sake. Real ownership of property is nearly impossible. Families have been lured by promises of prosperity to abandon the agricultural life, or even the dream thereof. None of this happened by accident. The Church, in its wisdom, warned us of these dangers for many generations. We are now witnessing the diabolical fruits of these errors.

● Article by Brother Lawrence Mary MICM originally published on Catholicism.org

ROADSIDE REMEDIES

YARROW

Excellent remedy for haemorrhage, fever and stimulating digestion. Young leaves full of healing juice. Pain relief. Acute bronchitis

BURDOCK ROOT

All round wonderplant. Helps frail people develop strength working on liver, kidneys and skin. Leaves are good for itchy skin. Seeds for acne. Excellent for waste removal

LADY'S MANTLE

Speedy healing of cuts and wounds with inflammation. Restores integrity of ruptured tissues. Leaves are used. Perforated eardrum. Muscle weakness. Helps with gynaecological issues

DANDELION

Promotes lymphatic system. Liver cleanser. Diuretic. Heals issues with urinary tract and deep seated infections

HORSETAIL

High silica content makes it good for hair, nails, skin, allergies, kidney stones. Excellent for joints. Can rebuild cartilage. Tea or tincture

RED CLOVER

Common roadside flower that quenches thirst. Good for drippy irritable cough. Very good remedy for hard cysts and swollen glands. Also used as a blood thinner breaking up coagulated blood which is a factor in cancer

MULLEIN

Chiefly used for acute respiratory diseases, congestion, and dryness of the mucosa. Also retained urine, ulcers and menstrual disorders. Excellent for gout. Pain relief in joints and burns

CLEAVERS

Remedy for swellings, earache, swollen glands, venomous bites. Excellent in any irritation of the renal tract. Long been used to heal cancer. Chronic acne. Use fresh infusion or make salve with butter

NETTLES

Contains more protein than any other native plant, large amounts of iron and trace minerals. Walking in nettle patches may restore sensation caused by numbness. Removes uric acid waste from body. Also stagnant mucous

Electric Vehicles Destined For Scrap

Graveyards of abandoned battery vehicles spell the end of the electric dream

THE blind rush to buy electric cars has left a lot of motorists with buyers' remorse. To the initiated, EVs spell disaster from the start and have never represented anything other than a means of getting drivers permanently off the road under Agenda 2030 and the UN plan to control and monitor our every move.

Gladly, many climate fanatics who bought into the dream of cheaper, cleaner motoring are realising they were sold a pup - that EVs are anything but green and make driving a misery. A recent report by the Society of the Irish Motor Industry found that sales of EVs in Ireland are in freefall, with fewer than 2,000 new EVs registered in March of this year, down 41% on the previous March when 7,971 were registered. All over Ireland, car sales outlets say they are struggling to sell them as customers wake up to the fraud. The government's ludicrous plan to have 1 million EVs on the road by 2030 is now dead in the water.

In China, graveyards of thousands of abandoned, unsellable battery cars are sprouting up (see image)) as drivers go back to reliable petrol/diesel vehicles. Many of the cars are just a few years old but have been left for junk. China produces 60% of the world's current electric fleet and has the most extensive charging infrastructure on Earth. Much of this is government subsidised, but now, due to lack of demand, there are only 100 manufacturers, down from roughly 500 in 2019.

Why are EVs being rejected? There are numerous reasons, not least because they need recharging every 3.5 hours which takes a minimum of 45 minutes.

So imagine a journey from Dublin to Cork. Rather than being able to drive direct as you can with a conventional car, you have to factor in several stops and potential delays as charging points are often few and far between or already in use. Often drivers have to wait between three and four hours for a slot to charge their cars. The Irish regime's ludicrous plan to force drivers to make the switch to electric is completely unworkable. If you had 10,000 electric vehicles per day travelling across a 100-mile stretch of road - the average range between charges is 100 miles and average charge time is one hour - there would have to be more than 400 charging stations or an average of four every mile.

Then there's the safety factor: EVs are prone to fires and bursting into flames if they hit something or venture into heavy rain. During wet weather, saltwater exposure can trigger combustion in lithium batteries. Emergency responders who attend crashes involving EVs have been forced to abandon rescue missions because they do not have adequate training to deal with such collisions. Fires can be quickly brought under control in an ICE (internal combustion engine) car but EVs create very high temperatures and are very difficult to extinguish and trigger the release of highly toxic gases. Such fires can take hours to control and can reignite.

Because EVs are approximately 30% heavier than petrol vehicles, they wear down more quickly needing replacement tyres and other parts more frequently. Then there's the ongoing problem with electrics and the fact that few mechanics are specialised in fixing them. Those that can charge big money for repairs. EV's aren't built to withstand cold climates and are prone to switching off completely in snow or freezing temperatures as batteries drain in inclement weather. When the gauge drops under freezing, their range drops dramatically. It's common to see large numbers of EVs stranded on the roadside in China during winter - another factor which has led to their growing unpopularity. During warm spells, the government closes down charging stations in order to conserve power. California aka Commiefornia is also now ordering its citizens not to use their electric cars during warm weather.

Motorists who believe they're doing a favour to the planet by going electric are also discovering the truth about that lie.

Electric cars are charged by coal, gas and oil plants further underlining the hypocrisy involved. One single TESLA charging station uses the same amount of power as 280 homes combined. EVs are much more emission-intensive to build, primarily because their batteries require rare earth elements, which in turn is hugely damaging to the environment. Battery-making sludge containing 70,000 tonnes of radioactive thorium growing at a rate of 20-30 metres a year near an EV mine in Bayan Oyo, China is heading for the Yellow River which is a major source of drinking water. At the same mine, diesel dirt-movers work in three holes the size of 1500 football fields. For just one EV battery, 500,000 pounds of the earth's crust are mined for REEs (rare earth elements). Hundreds of thousands of small children are enslaved in the battery mining industry, paid less than $1 a day and exposed to toxic chemicals. About 40,000 child slaves work in the extremely hazardous conditions of Congo's cobalt mining industry, the key ingredient in rechargeable batteries.

Nothing too humane or green about that.

MEDICAL MYTHS DEBUNKED

THE CHOLESTEROL SCAM

Cholesterol is a multi-billion euro industry based on a lie. We need cholesterol to stay healthy. Our brains consist of myelin which is made from cholesterol. When you take statins to block it, you starve your brain and this can cause mental fog, memory loss and dementia. Human breastmilk is rich in cholesterol which is critical for optimal development. There is no link between eggs and heart disease. Cholesterol is essential for brain function and overall health

SUNSHINE

Watch a plant in your garden come back to life when the sun shines. That's what happens to our bodies when they are exposed to the sun. Sunlight holds the greatest healing powers and can rid you of most ailments. It greatly enhances your ability to focus and create. Don't use dangerous sunscreen which can cause cancer. A little bit of coconut butter to keep moisturised. And leave the sunglasses behind.

GERM THEORY

Did you know that Louis Pasteur faked his findings about disease in the 1800s? All vaccines and germ theory are based on his fraudulent science, which became the cornerstone of Pharma-run modern medicine. The culprit is not the microbe. It's the level of toxicity in your bloodstream caused by your environment, what you eat and your lifestyle. Germs do not cause disease. The entire fabric of germ theory rests upon assumptions that not only have not been proven but which are incapable of proof. Bacteria appear when tissue is dying or damaged just as they appear on meat or fruit that has been left to rot but they are not the cause of the disease. On his deathbed, Pasteur recanted his research saying: The terrain is everything. The germ is nothing.

DON'T GOOGLE IT

Believe nothing you read on Google regarding health. This behemoth of fake news is funded by Big Pharma and it is in their interests to keep you unhealthy and frightened. Most of the health information on it is trash. Fear will put you in an early grave. Your body will heal if you treat it right and stop putting toxins into it.

FEAR IS THE KILLER

The medical industrial complex exists to make money and it can only do that by keeping you in fear with tales of non-existent viruses and other scare stories. The so-called 'Health Freedom' fakers are in on this too with their fear narratives about about shedding, lab leaks and graphene oxide. They promote chemicals like Ivermectin and Hydroxychloroquine which are toxic and completely unnecessary. Stay away from these Pharma shills and control your own health is healing. Everything your body does is about trying to repair the damage you have done to it. The first thing people do is to suppress the body's method of healing itself by taking anti-inflammatories or painkillers. Inflammation repairs tissue. Don't reach for the pills. You will only delay real and lasting healing.

INFLAMMATION....

ALL VACCINES ARE POISON
If you haven't worked that out by now, you soon will. The biggest tragedy in all of this is that so many innocent babies who couldn't say no to vaccines have ended up with autism and other chronic conditions because they were jabbed by parents who didn't do the research. Anyone who has been vaccinated at any point in their lives runs the risk of becoming sick from the poison cocktail injected into their bloodstream. Do all you can to detox every day and bring yourself back to health. It is possible.

SALT OF THE EARTH

Another lie pushed by the medical mafia is that salt is bad for you. The opposite is true. Salt is an essential nutrient of life. In 2007, a study in the American Journal of Medicine looking at the salt intake of 70 million Americans found that the more sodium people eat, the less they are likely to die from heart disease. Salt has almost no impact on blood pressure. Unprocessed sea salt is the best for you, giving your body the multiple minerals it needs. Take a pinch of salt in your water every day (filtered of course and not from a plastic bottle).

MEDICAL CORRUPTION

One of the best ways to stay healthy is to stay away from doctors and hospitals. Doctors are the leading cause of death and we have learned since Covid that doctors lie to their patients on a daily basis in order to keep the money flowing in. Get away from scans which do more harm than good, are completely unnecessary and keep you in a permanent state of fear. You are in charge of your health. Stop handing it over to monsters.

PILLS AND SURGERY

LIFESTYLE CHANGE

Unmasking The Lab Leak Lie

Dr Mark Bailey on the fraudulent claim that SARS-CoV-2 was engineered in a Chinese lab

ON January 31, 2020, a paper entitled 'Uncanny similarity of unique inserts in the 2019n-CoV spike protein to HIV-1 gp120 and Gag' was uploaded onto the preprint 'science' site bioRxiv.1

Written by Pradhan et al, it was removed just two days later. Despite its brief appearance, as of May 2024, the website metrics indicate that the article has been picked up by 116 news outlets, is mentioned in seven Wikipedia entries, and the online PDF version has been accessed over 480,000 times. On February 2nd, 2020, ZeroHedge promoted the Pradhan paper in an article titled 'Coronavirus Contains 'HIV Insertions', Stoking Fears Over Artificially Created Bioweapon' which received almost 1.7 million views. This followed their January 2020 article 'Is This The Man Behind The Global Coronavirus Pandemic?' which received over 1.1 million views. The authors implied that Peng Zhou from the Wuhan Institute of Virology was the likely culprit behind the 'coronavirus pandemic' as it was stated that: Something tells us if anyone wants to find out what really caused the coronavirus pandemic that has infected thousands of people in China and around the globe, they should probably pay Dr. Peng a visit.

This was six weeks before the Director-General of the World Health Organization (WHO) even declared that 'COVID-19' was a 'pandemic.' One of my colleagues did contact Peng Zhou's team following their online publication of 'A pneumonia outbreak associated with a new coronavirus of probable bat origin' in Nature in February 2020. This was one of the first papers from China claiming to demonstrate the existence of 2019-nCoV, later called 'SARS-CoV-2.' An extraordinary scientific fraud regarding their 'virus' isolation claim was exposed by my colleague and documented in 'The Disclosures Of Peng Zhou et al' in A Farewell to Virology (See www.drsembailey.com). Aside from the usual failure to physically isolate any particle that met the description of a virus, the team admitted to doubling the amount of antibiotics in the experimental cell lines. On February 7, 2020, the website FactCheck.org jumped onto the 'HIV inserts' story in an article entitled 'Conspiracy Theories Claim New Coronavirus Was Bioengineered.' In line with all the stories that preceded it, there was no question as to whether there was a new 'coronavirus' - that was presented as a given - the only question being posed to the public was the origin of the alleged virus. The summary provided in the FactCheck.org piece stated: "Several online stories inaccurately claim that the new coronavirus contains HIV

"insertions" and shows signs of being created in a lab. But there is no evidence that the new virus was bioengineered, and every indication it came from an animal."

The 'lab-leak theory' then featured in various mainstream news platforms for four years, and perhaps not surprisingly, by 2023, it was reported in 'The Washington Post' that over 60% of Americans believed that the 'virus' originated in a laboratory.

Despite this fact, organisations such as Children's Health Defense (CHD) have asserted that the public are being kept in the dark over such matters. In December 2023, Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and CHD cemented their position that SARS-CoV-2 not only exists as a disease-causing particle but was created in a laboratory and caused a novel disease. Several points are clear: (1) the 'lab leak' claim was well-developed and appeared at the start of the 'pandemic', (2) the Wuhan Institute of Virology was publicised by the Chinese government and in mainstream platforms, and (3) the so-called 'cover up' is known about by the majority of Americans. In this regard, it is also of note that online encyclopaedia Wikipedia has a very large "COVID-19 lab leak theory" entry. It even suggests to the reader that the question may simply boil down to how the laboratory virus went on to cause a pandemic.

We have addressed the baseless virological claims behind such 'gain of function' and 'bio-weapon' stories by dismantling the relevant scientific documents on which they rely. In our estimation, the stories are most often promulgated by those who have been misled by the virologists' claims or those who are gaslighting (or being gaslit) in order to maintain acceptance of 'viruses' and contagion.

In May 2024, Zero Hedge continued to advance the engineered virus story for the fifth consecutive year in their article 'Watch Live: Peter Daszak: Documents Expose More About Dangerous Wuhan Research.' Some days later, journalist Paul Thacker revealed a new set of documents which raised further questions into the work done by Daszak, as well as statements made by the National Institutes of Health regarding papers showing they funded risky virus research at the Wuhan Institute of Virology to create dangerous chimeric viruses. There was no mention of the "HIV gp120 insertions" or other "suspicious" sequences that caught the interest of Pradhan et al. as well as outspoken individuals such as Dr Richard Fleming.

The latest Zero Hedge article referred to congressional testimonies, National Institutes of Health grants and the activities of Peter Daszak's EcoHealth Alliance and the Wuhan Institute of Virology.

All of this continued to uphold the key tenets that: (1) COVID-19 was a pandemic, (2) it was caused by SARS-CoV-2, and (3) laboratory experiments involving "coronaviruses" are taking place.

In 2020, we earnestly believed that exposing the fraud concerning the lack of evidence for SARS-CoV-2, the inappropriate use of the Polymerase Chain Reaction (PCR) as a claimed human diagnostic test and the WHO's nonsensical case definition would result in the COVID-19 'pandemic' fizzling out before the end of that year. In retrospect, we were naïve at that time as to how crucial the virus model is to the pharmaceutical, biotechnology and genomics industries as well as the development of the 'biosecurity' surveillance state. It is apparent that 'alternative' theories are permitted and even promoted by the State and allied platforms on the proviso that they uphold the virus model. Which brings us back to the January 2020 Pradhan paper that acted as one of the original triggers for the narrative that SARS-CoV-2 was an engineered virus. The narrative was unlikely to be of any concern to virus model and pandemic industry beneficiaries because the fraud of the new 'virus' helped propagate the fraud of an old 'virus'. In this case, it related to the claimed properties of gp120 - primarily that the protein and its corresponding genetic sequences belong to 'HIV'.

However, where does the evidence for gp120 belonging to any virus actually stand? In 1997, Bess et al. published 'Microvesicles Are a Source of Contaminating Cellular Proteins Found in Purified HIV-1 Preparations,' in which they stated, 'although HIV-1 particles are known to contain some cellular proteins, microvesicles from HIV-1 infected H9 cells appeared to contain little or no HIV-1 gp120.' It caught the attention of the Perth Group's Eleni Papadopoulos- Eleopoulos because as she stated in August 1997: ...until March 1997, for unknown reasons, nobody had ever published an electron micrograph of the purified material to show which, if any, of the many different variety of particles seen in gross cell cultures are present. Bess presented gel results from H9 cell lines, the first (A) said not to be infected by 'HIV', the next two (B & C) said to be infected by 'HIV.' In 2011, The Perth Group summarised the implications of the gel electrophoresis data as follows: Anyone can see the patterns in all three gels are virtually identical. The same proteins are present in all three gels with some variation in the amounts of some proteins. Since the same proteins are present in gels A, B and C, one has to conclude there are no "extra" proteins in B and C. That is, there are no HIV proteins in the 'purified virus'.

No HIV proteins = no HIV. The claim that 'SARS-CoV-2' contains 'HIV inserts' is emblematic of the propagation of decades of virological pseudoscience. Peng Zhou's team could not engineer a virus as there was no evidence of a virus to begin with, just as there is no evidence of 'HIV'. The debate over the origin of the COVID-19 'pandemic' has been presented as a false dichotomy where the uninitiated are asked to pick between: (1) 'zoonotic spillover' (wet market/bat cave, etc) or (2) 'lab leak' (accident vs deliberate).

As it stands, over 60% of Americans believe that the COVID-19 event was the result of an engineered "virus" - a mainstream theme permitted by governments and the globalist media. The maintenance of the virus model primarily serves corporate and sociopolitical ends rather than health or scientific advancement. It is dressed up as the latter but as we witnessed during the COVID era, aspects of it apparently now require enforcement through the state's compulsory monopoly on coercion and violence. Those promulgating narratives involving 'lab leak' and 'gain of function' claims are implored to examine the foundational scientific evidence on which everything relies to avoid providing a disservice to both science and humanity.

● For full article and all sources, visit www.drsembailey.com

Convid: A Self-Serving Fairytale

Jon Rappoport on how non-existent viruses are a convenient lie to cover up medical failure

AS soon as I began writing about COVID in the spring of 2020, I made the case that SARS-CoV-2 hadn't been proven to exist.

I then met Tom Cowan, Andrew Kaufman, and Christine Massey. I became aware of the work of Stefan Lanka. They were making a wide challenge about viruses in general: No actual isolation; no proof of existence; instead, a parade of false claims and obfuscations from official sources.

A few years later and the number of serious researchers who are coming to the same conclusion has expanded significantly. (You can find links to some of these researchers at Christine Massey's Substack page.) The new work isn't just a repetition of the original challenge to official authority. It attacks fake viruses from a number of angles.

The shocks keep coming. This story isn't going away. It's building. It reminds me of the vaccine story. When I first started writing about dangerous and ineffective vaccines in 1987, there were dozens of writers, present and past, who had covered similar ground going back many decades. But that was nothing compared with the strength of that story now, after the catastrophe of the COVID vaccines.

This is what I believe is going to happen to the fake virus story - against even longer odds. I say 'longer' because the proof that viruses aren't real by any scientific standard will undermine and detonate the very centre of the medical cartel, which is all about germ theory.

Germ theory is marketing. The marketing of (toxic) drugs and vaccines for thousands of so-called distinct diseases, each supposedly caused by a unique germ. When that fiction falls, the whole house collapses. Going back as far as the beginning of the 20th century (and farther), another paradigm about disease emerged. It came to be called 'holistic.' Probably not the best label. But the idea was: look at the whole body, the whole person. Look at body processes as connected and inter-related. Understand disease and health in those larger terms. Include environmental effects - basic sanitation, pollution, toxic chemicals, nutrition, the rise of the middle class out of poverty.

Something needs to be pointed out here. The holistic paradigm is a very difficult approach, in terms of making it pay off in real cures. It always has been difficult. Thousands of methods have been suggested. Many of these tend to mirror the medical strategy: find magic bullet solutions, take short cuts. Market them.

Claim temporary fixes are permanent. Treating the body and the person as a whole, taking in the mind-body connection - this is by no means a walk in the park.

Therefore, sooner or later, many people, discouraged, fall back on medical answers and germ theory. The work of the no-virus pioneers provides an absolutely essential antidote to that surrender.

Because what are people surrendering to? The convenient fiction that viruses are everywhere, causing separate diseases.

Convenient fiction was how viruses were willed into existence in the first place: Doctors couldn't cure their patients. So they looked for 'something that was missing.' A hole in their hypotheses. And they claimed they found it.

Tiny particles no-one had ever seen. No one had ever isolated. 'This is the key. This is the great discovery.' It was a self-serving fairy tale. An excuse for treatment failure. It kicked off millions of efforts to assure one and all that viruses were real. Marketing, parading as science.

Where were these viruses being discovered? In proprietary labs. No civilians permitted. Doors locked. Only the experts could understand the details of their own isolation of the tiny particles.

Particles which had been fantasised into existence. We're actually looking at a magic myth story. Explorer knights (doctors, researchers) are searching for an invisible dragon object which is crippling the population. These heroes finally corner it and isolate it and go to work decimating it and all its variants. But the real ending to that story is now being provided by the multiplying number of independent researchers, who are proving the invisible dragon object was never cornered, identified or isolated. Instead, the so-called explorer knights made up, invented, fabricated the idea of the object to begin with.

That's the magic. Sleight of hand. That's the myth. Secret lab procedures that, when exposed, turn out to assume what they're trying to prove. Also known as circular reasoning.

The whole story has come unglued.

For now, I'll conclude with this analogy.

A group of elite researchers claim that, 49 trillion light years from Earth, there is a flaming star the size of the Milky Way. At the centre of that star, buried within a supernatural vault, there is a tiny, tiny purple man with green toes and orange hair who is causing all trouble and all destruction circulating throughout the universe. He's there. He's been 'isolated.'

Given that incredible tale, would you expect, would you really expect there can be ANY sort of test which would prove the existence of that tiny man? Could ANY test be produced that would be authentic? So, in the case of the wild virus fairy tale, are we looking at proofs of existence and isolation that need to be improved, in order for us to accept them? Or are we, instead, looking at the tiny purple man, about whose existence there are no possible proofs at all? Because the story is so absurdly outrageous, I'm thinking we're dealing with the tiny purple man. And this may be the next chapter in the no-virus revelation:

The original concoction of viruses was so crazy, every so-called proof is going to be circular, mindless, and futile. There is no there to get to.

Stay tuned.

● American journalist Jon Rappoport has worked as a freelance investigative reporter for over 35 years. His work can be found at www.nomorefakenews.com

‘Doctors Killed My Father’

A terrifying story of medical negligence and brazen criminality in an Irish hospital

IN 2020, a fear campaign was instigated by the Irish Government, the Chief Medical Officer of Ireland and the Health Service Executive (HSE) among others. The campaign’s aim was to convince people through propaganda broadcasts, terrifying imagery and interviews using RTE and other Irish national media platforms who duly complied, that there was a pathogen not seen before descending on the human race who were all at risk of death if infected.

The fear campaign was carried out at the same time as people were unconstitutionally restricted in their movement, freedoms and had psychological terror tactics used against them, such as being forced to wear an ineffective mask over their mouth and nose, and told to stay six feet away from another person. These measures were not scientifically proven before implementation and the method of using psychological terror in order to implement them caused lasting division among people and turned family members against each other, through the impact of being told they could be killed by another person if that person did not comply. Then came the injections, presented as a way out of the torture. Once again, a fear campaign was run to convince people that they could have their ‘privileges’ back, which were unconstitutionally taken away from them, if they rolled up their sleeves and took ‘jabs’ of unknown substance into their body. They were repeatedly told the ‘jabs’ were safe and effective, which we know was a lie and continues to be a lie. This was followed by a further fear campaign by the same entities to convince people to accept the belief that a ‘vaccine passport’ was the only way out of the terror, which they were inflicting upon us. Once again, this caused division among people and put family members against each other, through the impact of being told they could be killed by the other person if that person did not comply and show their ‘papers’ in order to live their lives without restrictions.

This was the background to the sinister propaganda used to coerce my father into taking two Pfizer Covid injections in 2021. He was led to believe that in doing so he would be helping others and it would enable him to get his life back on track where he could once again freely visit his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

In 2021, my father received a telephone call from his GP practice telling him to come in on a certain date and time and he would be given his first ‘dose’. Following this, he was given a card by the nurse with a date and time within four weeks to return for his second ‘dose.’ There was no informed consent given and no documentation or leaflet handed to my father. He just waited outside the nurse’s door, was called in, injected with the ‘dose’ and then went home. This was repeated for the second ‘dose’ which was given by a different nurse at the same GP practice four weeks after the first.

At the time, my father was told by both nurses who administered them that the vaccines were safe and effective and would prevent him becoming infected with or transmitting the virus they all referred to as ‘Covid-19.’

My father didn’t feel well after the injections, which caused him fatigue. I explained to him how they worked and how the data was showing that they were neither safe or effective. My father agreed that it was best not to have any more and was shocked that it was even considered an appropriate treatment.

Following the vaccines in 2021, I rang the surgery and spoke to my father’s GP. During the telephone conversation, she disclosed to me that she had no knowledge that the injections were mRNA as she thought they were a traditional vaccine. I firmly told her that my father did not want to receive any more of these injections and that the data was showing that they were neither safe or effective. However, the practice staff continued to coerce patients to take them despite being informed of the dangers.

In October, my father was once again contacted by his GP. I was shocked by this. A text from the Practice Manager gave my father a date and time to come in for a booster injection - no discussion - the practice manager just booked him in to have a booster and sent him the details by text. I put them on legal notice. Immediately after receiving my notice of legal liability, the doctor instructed a staff member from her practice to telephone my father and order him to attend for a meeting under threat of having him removed from the practice.

My father was very distressed by this. He was frightened by the doctor’s threats and behaviour at the meeting, where she produced a pre-typed letter written on her practice letterhead. She insisted my father sign it there and then or she would have him removed from the practice and he would be without a GP. This was criminal exploitation. My father felt he was left with no choice but to sign against his will under threat and force.

On a cold winter’s day in December 2022, Dad was admitted to hospital. He died a few days’ later in January 2023. During his time in hospital, he was misdiagnosed, neglected, suffered elder abuse and used as a candidate in a trial. Once again, he was medicated against our will. They made an order, against our wishes, to inject my father with lethal doses of Morphine and Midazolam to end his life. On receipt of these lethal injections by a registered nurse, my father began choking and banging his arms on the bed. He had a horrific death. Moments before my father passed, his consultant roughly pulled the nasal oxygen support device from his head leaving him without any oxygen support. This caused the device to slap back onto our father’s face inflicting a blood blister on his lip. He removed oxygen support to our father while he was alive with force and battery.

During this horrendous episode, my siblings and I were also treated with cruelty and violence by his consultant and a nurse at the hospital.

I am in no doubt that my father’s death was caused by gross negligence and that they intended to end his life. I am horrified that our father’s last moments on this earth were so horrific. It will haunt me for the rest of my life.

Since then, I have begun the process of gathering evidence and raising complaints on behalf of my family. I intend to publish all of my letters and responses on my Substack. My father was an expert in amateur radio and Morse code and so I have titled my Substack silentkey in his memory: Silent Key | Substack.

My hope in writing this is to spare other patients and families the horror of what we have been put through by the medical profession, to expose elder abuse and to try to save precious lives whom the State considers a burden.

● To read more about my father’s death and what we have been subjected to as a family, please join me at: www.substack.com/@silentkey

TODAY'S WEATHER

BEFORE

DURING

AFTER

BROUGHT TO YOU BY THE GOVERNMENT

A Role Model For Young Men

The graduation speech given by sporting hero Harrison Butker is a must-read for all young Irish people

American sporting hero Harrison Butker (right) gave a graduation speech at Benedictine College in Kansas in May about the dignity of life, masculinity, and the most important role of all: motherhood. You can read it in full here:

LADIES and gentlemen of the Class of 2024: I would like to start off by congratulating all of you for successfully making it to this achievement today. I'm sure your high school graduation was not what you had imagined, and most likely, neither were your first couple years of college.

By making it to this moment, through all the adversity thrown your way from COVID, I hope you learned the important lessons that suffering in this life is only temporary. As a group, you witnessed firsthand how bad leaders who don't stay in their lane can have a negative impact on society. It is through this lens that I want to take stock of how we got to where we are, and where we want to go as citizens and, yes, as Catholics.

Last year, I gave the commencement address at my alma mater, Georgia Tech. It spoke to the many challenges you all faced throughout the COVID fiasco and how you missed out on so many milestones the rest of us older people have taken for granted. While COVID might have played a large role throughout your formative years, it is not unique. Bad policies and poor leadership have negatively impacted major life issues. Things like abortion, IVF, surrogacy, euthanasia, as well as a growing support for degenerate cultural values in media, all stem from the pervasiveness of disorder. Our own nation is led by a man who publicly and proudly proclaims his Catholic faith, but at the same time is delusional enough to make the Sign of the Cross during a pro-abortion rally. He has been so vocal in his support for the murder of innocent babies that I'm sure to many people it appears that you can be both Catholic and pro-choice.

He is not alone. From the man behind the COVID lockdowns to the people pushing dangerous gender ideologies onto the youth of America, they all have a glaring thing in common. They are Catholic. This is an important reminder that being Catholic alone doesn't cut it. These are the sorts of things we are told in polite society to not bring up.

You know, the difficult and unpleasant things. But if we are going to be men and women for this time in history, we need to stop pretending that the "Church of Nice" is a winning proposition. We must always speak and act in charity, but never mistake charity for cowardice. It is safe to say that over the past few years, I have gained quite the reputation for speaking my mind. I never envisioned myself, nor wanted, to have this sort of a platform, but God has given it to me, so I have no other choice but to embrace it and preach more hard truths about accepting your lane and staying in it.

As members of the Church founded by Jesus Christ, it is our duty and ultimately privilege to be authentically and unapologetically Catholic. Don't be mistaken, even within the Church, people in polite Catholic circles will try to persuade you to remain silent.

Our Catholic faith has always been countercultural. Our Lord, along with countless followers, were all put to death for their adherence to her teachings. The world around us says that we should keep our beliefs to ourselves whenever they go against the tyranny of diversity, equity, and inclusion. We fear speaking truth, because now, unfortunately, truth is in the minority. Congress just passed a bill where stating something as basic as the biblical teaching of who killed Jesus could land you in jail.

But make no mistake, before we even attempt to fix any of the issues plaguing society, we must first get our own house in order, and it starts with our leaders. The bishops and priests appointed by God as our spiritual fathers must be rightly ordered. There is not enough time today for me to list all the stories of priests and bishops misleading their flocks, but none of us can blame ignorance anymore and just blindly proclaim that "That's what Father said." Because sadly, many priests we are looking to for leadership are the same ones who prioritize their hobbies or even photos with their dogs and matching outfits for the parish directory.

It's easy for us laymen and women to think that in order for us to be holy, that we must be active in our parish and try to fix it. Yes, we absolutely should be involved in supporting our parishes, but we cannot be the source for our parish priests to lean on to help with their problems. Just as we look at the relationship between a father and his son, so too should we look at the relationship between a priest and his people. It would not be appropriate for me to always be looking to my son for help when it is my job as his father to lead him.

St. Josemaría Escrivá states that priests are ordained to serve, and should not yield to temptation to imitate laypeople, but to be priests through and through. Tragically, so many priests revolve much of their happiness from the adulation they receive from their parishioners, and in searching for this, they let their guard down and become overly familiar. This undue familiarity will prove to be problematic every time, because as my teammate's girlfriend says, familiarity breeds contempt.

Saint Josemaría continues that some want to see the priest as just another man. That is not so. They want to find in the priest those virtues proper to every Christian, and indeed every honorable man: understanding, justice, a life of work - priestly work, in this instance - and good manners. It is not prudent as the laity for us to consume ourselves in becoming amateur theologians so that we can decipher this or that theological teaching - unless, of course, you are a theology major.

We must be intentional with our focus on our state in life and our own vocation. And for most of us, that's as married men and women. Still, we have so many great resources at our fingertips that it doesn't take long to find traditional and timeless teachings that haven't been ambiguously reworded for our times. Plus, there are still many good and holy priests, and it's up to us to seek them out.

The chaos of the world is unfortunately reflected in the chaos in our parishes, and sadly, in our cathedrals too. As we saw during the pandemic, too many bishops were not leaders at all. They were motivated by fear, fear of being sued, fear of being removed, fear of being disliked. They showed by their actions, intentional or unintentional, that the sacraments don't actually matter.

Because of this, countless people died alone, without access to the sacraments, and it's a tragedy we must never forget.

As Catholics, we can look to so many examples of heroic shepherds who gave their lives for their people, and ultimately, the Church. We cannot buy into the lie that the things we experienced during COVID were appropriate. Over the centuries, there have been great wars, great famines, and yes, even great diseases, all that came with a level of lethality and danger. But in each of those examples, Church leaders leaned into their vocations and ensured that their people received the sacraments.

Great saints like St. Damien of Molokai, who knew the dangers of his ministry, stayed for 11 years as a spiritual leader to the leper colonies of Hawaii. His heroism is looked at today as something set apart and unique, when ideally it should not be unique at all.

For as a father loves his child, so a shepherd should love his spiritual children, too. That goes even more so for our bishops, these men who are present-day apostles. Today, our shepherds are far more concerned with keeping the doors open to the chancery than they are with saying the difficult stuff out loud.

It seems that the only time you hear from your bishops is when it's time for the annual appeal, whereas we need our bishops to be vocal about the teachings of the Church, setting aside their own personal comfort and embracing their cross.

Our bishops are not politicians but shepherds, so instead of fitting in the world by going along to get along they need to stay in their lane and lead.

Cont'd on next page...

‘Be Unapologetic In Your Masculinity’

Cont’d

I say all of this not from a place of anger, as we get the leaders we deserve. But this does make me reflect on staying in my lane and focusing on my own vocation and how I can be a better father and husband and live in the world but not be of it. Focusing on my vocation while praying and fasting for these men will do more for the Church than me complaining about her leaders.

Because there seems to be so much confusion coming from our leaders, there needs to be concrete examples for people to look to in places like Benedictine, a little Kansas college built high on a bluff above the Missouri River, which are showing the world how an ordered, Christ-centered existence is the recipe for success. You need to look no further than the examples all around this campus, where over the past 20 years, enrollment has doubled, construction and revitalization are a constant part of life, and people, the students, the faculty and staff, are thriving. This didn’t happen by chance. In a deliberate movement to embrace traditional Catholic values, Benedictine has gone from just another liberal arts school with nothing to set it apart to a thriving beacon of light and a reminder to us all that when you embrace tradition, success - worldly and spiritual - will follow.

Ladies and gentlemen of the class of 2024, you are sitting at the edge of the rest of your lives. Each of you has the potential to leave a legacy that transcends yourselves and this era of human existence. In the small ways, by living out your vocation, you will ensure that God’s Church continues and the world is enlightened by your example.

For the ladies present today, I want to speak directly to you briefly because I think it is you, the women, who have had the most diabolical lies told to you. How many of you are sitting here now about to cross this stage and are thinking about all the promotions and titles you are going to get in your career? Some of you may go on to lead successful careers in the world, but I would venture to guess that the majority of you are most excited about your marriage and the children you will bring into this world.

I can tell you that my beautiful wife, Isabelle, would be the first to say that her life truly started when she began living her vocation as a wife and as a mother. I’m on the stage today and able to be the man I am because I have a wife who leans into her vocation. I’m beyond blessed with the many talents God has given me, but it cannot be overstated that all of my success is made possible because a girl I met in band class back in middle school would convert to the faith, become my wife, and embrace one of the most important titles of all: homemaker.

The fruits of feminism	The fruits of Christianity

Misery Childlessness Selfishness Loneliness Promiscuity No Purpose	Marriage Children Love Companionship Moral Society Lasting Legacy

[Applause lasting 18 seconds]

She is a primary educator to our children. She is the one who ensures I never let football or my business become a distraction from that of a husband and father. She is the person that knows me best at my core, and it is through our marriage that, Lord willing, we will both attain salvation. I say all of this to you because I have seen it firsthand how much happier someone can be when they disregard the outside noise and move closer and closer to God’s will in their life. Isabelle’s dream of having a career might not have come true, but if you asked her today if she has any regrets on her decision, she would laugh out loud, without hesitation, and say, “Heck, No.”

As a man who gets a lot of praise and has been given a platform to speak to audiences like this one today, I pray that I always use my voice for God and not for myself. Everything I am saying to you is not from a place of wisdom, but rather a place of experience. I am hopeful that these words will be seen as those from a man, not much older than you, who feels it is imperative that this class, this generation, and this time in our society must stop pretending that the things we see around us are normal. Heterodox ideas abound even within Catholic circles. But let’s be honest, there is nothing good about playing God with having children - whether that be your ideal number or the perfect time to conceive. No matter how you spin it, there is nothing natural about Catholic birth control. It is only in the past few years that I have grown encouraged to speak more boldly and directly because, as I mentioned earlier, I have leaned into my vocation as a husband and father, and as a man.

To the gentlemen here today: Part of what plagues our society is this lie that has been told to you that men are not necessary in the home or in our communities. As men, we set the tone of the culture, and when that is absent, disorder, dysfunction, and chaos set in. This absence of men in the home is what plays a large role in the violence we see all around the nation.

Be unapologetic in your masculinity, fighting against the cultural emasculation of men. Do hard things. Never settle for what is easy. You might have a talent that you don’t necessarily enjoy, but if it glorifies God, maybe you should lean into that over something that you might think suits you better. I speak from experience as an introvert who now finds myself as an amateur public speaker and an entrepreneur, something I never thought I’d be when I received my industrial engineering degree.

The road ahead is bright. Things are changing. Society is shifting. And people, young and old, are embracing tradition. Not only has it been my vocation that has helped me and those closest to me, but not surprising to many of you, should be my outspoken embrace of the traditional Latin Mass. I’ve been very vocal in my love and devotion to the TLM and its necessity for our lives. But what I think gets misunderstood is that people who attend the TLM do so out of pride or preference. I can speak to my own experience, but for most people I have come across within these communities this simply is not true. I do not attend the TLM because I think I am better than others, or for the smells and bells, or even for the love of Latin. I attend the TLM because I believe, just as the God of the Old Testament was pretty particular in how he wanted to be worshipped, the same holds true for us today. It is through the TLM that I encountered order, and began to pursue it in my own life. Aside from the TLM itself, too many of our sacred traditions have been relegated to things of the past, when in my parish, things such as ember days, days when we fast and pray for vocations and for our priests, are still adhered to. The TLM is so essential that I would challenge each of you to pick a place to move where it is readily available. I prioritize the TLM even if the parish isn’t beautiful, the priest isn’t great, or the community isn’t amazing. I still go to the TLM because I believe the holy sacrifice of the Mass is more important than anything else. I say this knowing full well that when each of you rekindle your knowledge and adherence to many of the church’s greatest traditions, you will see how much more colourful and alive your life can and should be.

As you move on from this place and enter into the world, know that you will face many challenges. Sadly, I’m sure many of you know of the countless stories of good and active members of this community who, after graduation and moving away from the Benedictine bubble, have ended up moving in with their boyfriend or girlfriend prior to marriage. Some even leave the Church and abandon God. It is always heartbreaking to hear these stories, and there is a desire to know what happened and what went wrong.

What you must remember is that life is about doing the small things well, setting yourself up for success, and surrounding yourself with people who continually push you to be the best version of you. I say this all the time, that iron sharpens iron. It’s a great reminder that those closest to us should be making us better. If you are dating someone who doesn’t even share your faith, how do you expect that person to help you become a saint? If your friend group is filled with people who only think about what you’re doing next weekend and are not willing to have those difficult conversations, how can they help sharpen you? I’m excited for the future, and I pray that something I have said will resonate as you move on to the next chapter of your life.

Never be afraid to profess the one holy, Catholic and apostolic Church, for this is the Church that Jesus Christ established, through which we receive sanctifying grace. Make no mistake: You are entering into mission territory in a post-God world, but you were made for this. And with God by your side and a constant striving for virtue within your vocation, you too can be a saint. Christ is King. To the Heights.

Ticked Off: The Lyme Disease Lie

There's no scientific evidence that Lyme's disease is caused by ticks. Dr Sam Bailey uncovers the fraud

THERE have been a lot of requests for us to say something about Lyme disease, so I decided it was time to dedicate an article on the topic.

In this case, the alleged bacterial pathogen is introduced into the body by a tick, and the claim that ticks cause this disease through bites is considered under the germ theory umbrella. But what does the scientific evidence actually reveal? Have the bacteria been shown to cause sickness, and is Lyme disease even a legitimate entity? The truth is more shocking than many would imagine.

The introduction of the term 'Lyme disease' in the 1970s was a win for establishment medicine but a grave loss for the public. A label was attached to a nonspecific range of symptoms and signs and the bug hunters then falsely accused Borrelia, a bystander bacterial species. If a doctor says you have Lyme disease, they do not know what they are talking about- get out of there before they run non-diagnostic tests or worse, try to 'treat' you. Before we go on a search for scientific evidence of the alleged causal agent of Lyme disease, first we should investigate how the disease is defined. And this is where the whole thing becomes scientifically unhinged. The CDC (US Center for Disease Control) states that the early signs and symptoms could be "fever, chills, headache, fatigue, muscle and joint aches, and swollen lymph nodes."

On Wikipedia, it's even worse. The Lyme disease entry states: "Lyme disease can affect several body systems and produce a broad range of symptoms. Not everyone with Lyme disease has all of the symptoms and many of the symptoms are not specific to Lyme disease, but can occur with other diseases, as well." This is a farcical state of affairs because the diagnosis is supposed to be based on a history of tick exposure (not even a confirmed bite) and symptoms -but these symptoms can be just about anything.

What about erythema migrans, the famous rash said to be specific to Lyme disease? Once again, this is not a specific type of rash, and the CDC even has a page called "The Many Forms of Lyme Disease Rashes." This page suggests that the rash can be faint, could be crusted and can appear in different shapes and colors, whereas other indistinguishable rashes can be dismissed as not erythema migrans because they are classified as "allergic reactions" to insults such as insect bites and drugs.

In terms of the alleged pathogen involved, we can consult the "big book" of Lyme disease called 'Lyme Disease and Relapsing Fever Spirochetes' published in 2021. It states the following: "Lyme disease was first recognized in 1976 when a cluster of cases of juvenile arthritis was recognized in Old Lyme, Connecticut, USA. Many of these patients also reported cutaneous skin lesions that were similar to those reported in Europe that were previously associated with tick bites. There was a strong suspicion that an infectious agent was the underlying cause of both cases in Old Lyme, CT and in Europe, but it was not until 1982 that a spirochete found in Ixodes ticks was suggested to be the cause (Burgdorfer et al., 1982). The role of this bacterium, named Borrelia burgdorferi, as the causative agent of Lyme disease was quickly established as the bacterium was recovered from patients as well as from reservoir hosts, such as the white-footed mouse.

The single listed citation by Burgdorfer et al. is the 1982 paper with the title "Lyme Disease-A Tick-Borne Spirochetosis?" (Note the question mark at the end of the title.) The paper describes how the researchers collected 126 ticks from Shelter Island, New York in 1981 and found that 61 percent of them had spirochetes (a type of bacterium) in their gut. On this basis, the authors unwarrantedly concluded, "The degree of infection varied; some ticks contained only a few spirochetes, others contained large numbers."

Finding bacteria in a gut system is not evidence of an infection. We have trillions of microbes in our gut and, like all animals, the microbes are required for our life processes. In any case, it is nonsense to claim that microbes found in tick guts are the smoking gun for the cause of Lyme disease. To make the case for bitten transmission even weaker, the paper's authors admitted, "No other tissues, including the salivary glands, contained spirochetes." In the same paper, Burgdorfer and his co-authors proceeded to describe a study where they allowed about 300 ticks to feed on eight New Zealand White rabbits. This was an uncontrolled experiment - simply an observational study - rather than an experimental one capable of testing their hypothesis with an independent variable. If they were suggesting that Borrelia caused Lyme disease, then some of the rabbits should have been bitten by ticks "infected" with the bacteria and other rabbits bitten by ticks not carrying the bacteria.

Unsurprisingly, the biting onslaught by almost 40 ticks per rabbit, attached to their shaved abdomens in metal capsules, caused some of them to develop rashes. However, despite testing the rabbits' blood daily and taking skin biopsies, they found Borrelia bacteria in exactly zero. The reality was that they failed to demonstrate transmission, let alone any ability of the bacteria to cause disease.

It is an example of the germ theorists' desperation to make nature fit their model when the science does not back it up.

Due to the patent failure of their experiments, the researchers resorted to an antibody study. The antibodies were created using an assay that reacted to an antigen contained in a tick specimen mixture. They reported that the antibody was present in all rabbits that had been exposed to ticks, although keep in mind, they are talking about a titer or concentration here - the protein could have been present in the rabbits not exposed to ticks as well, but they set the cut-off for a "positive" at a one-in-20 dilution. Then they tested blood from nine patients clinically "diagnosed" with Lyme disease- which leads us straight back to the problem of, what does this even mean? In any case, they reported that the antibody was found in higher levels in these people than in people not diagnosed with Lyme disease. Suffice to say, they do not constitute evidence for a pathogen, and all we can say is that the apparent presence of proteins termed "antibodies" in higher amounts may be an indication of tissue inflammation and damage (or healing attempts). It has been an ongoing offence committed by the germ theorists to claim antibodies relate to "pathogen" exposure or "immunity."

They resort to this trick because they cannot fulfil Koch's postulates or provide the required foundational evidence through the scientific method. The last aspect to address is the mainstream claim that antibiotics are useful for treating the disease. If this were true, it cannot be due to any antimicrobial action because there is no evidence that any of this is caused by bacteria. Having worked in the system for two decades, I know that doctors hope that one of their prescription medicines will be the magic bullet. Unfortunately, this hope stems from the chronically ingrained and misplaced belief in germ theory and pharmaceuticals. We have a conundrum here because the term "Lyme disease" is so well known, it seems to most people that it must be real. However, the term should be relegated to the archives of pseudoscience. And, as "terrain" proponents, we should be careful about being drawn into discussions along the lines of, "What causes Lyme disease, if not bacterial infection through tick bites?" It is not something that can be diagnosed because the signs and symptoms are non-specific, the microbiology is non-specific and the so-called "tests" (blood antibodies) are non-specific. Labelling a patient with "Lyme disease" is completely unhelpful. Symptoms and signs may be real, but the fictional concoction known as "Lyme disease" is an allopathic germ theory cover story. We need to reject the label and attend to each individual's situation. Focusing on whether they may have been bitten by a tick in the past few months is probably not going to provide the answer to restoring health. Every case is different, and the various symptoms and signs are manifestations of the body's attempts to heal itself. The answers are found in addressing factors such as environmental toxins and dietary errors, ignoring fear and focusing on right thinking and living.

● For more, visit www.drumbailey.com

NO-ONE SAID A WORD WHEN I CONSUMED THESE

BUT THEY SAY I'LL DIE FROM EATING THESE

BECOME UNGOVERNABLE

GROW YOUR OWN

MOVE TO THE COUNTRY

RAISE FARM ANIMALS

HEAL YOURSELF

THE GREATEST CHANGE WE NEED TO MAKE
IS FROM CONSUMPTION TO PRODUCTION